Mine Contract Is Approved in Hazard Region

Union Shop Included;
7,000 Workers Affected
BACK TO JOBS

400 More Troops are Held Ready in Harlan District

Knoxville, Tenn.—(P)—Southern Appalachian coal operators signed today a union shop contract with the United Mine Workers.

The announcement was made jointly by L. C. Gunter, president of the operators association, and William Turnblazer, president of District 19, U.M.W.A.

Gunter said the decision to sign was "practically unanimous" among the approximately 30 operators attending the meeting.

The agreement affects more than 20 mines and approximately 5,500 miners in Tennessee and Kentucky. Gunter said the mines would be re-opened for work immediately.

The southern Appalachian operators had declined to go along with northern Appalachian operators when the latter signed a similar contract with the union last week.

Harlan, Ky.—(P)—The Hazards district coal operators, employing approximately 7,000 men, today signed a union shop contract at Lexington with the United Mine Workers as 400 additional national guard troops were ordered in readiness to move into this strife-torn coal area.

Announcement of the signing of the contract was made simultaneously by J. E. Johnson, a member of the Hazards operators' group, and Sam Caddy, president of the Harlan district U.M.W.

The agreement covers 40 mines, all of those in the area, operated by 27 companies. These mines produce about 7,000,000 tons annually. Caddy said he was wiring an order for the miners to "start work immediately" and added that some may be in the pits before the end of the day.

Signing of this agreement, the second in 15 other operating groups approved in New York last September, left only the Harlan operators in Kentucky dissenting from the union shop contract. The Hazards field adjoins Harlan. At Ashland yesterday the other dissenting Kentucky group, big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators association, signed the contract. Peace negotiations here are not to be resumed until Monday.

Forced To Sign
The Hazards operators issued a statement saying that while they "still opposed the union shop" it "would be economic suicide not to sign."

Caddy in his statement, declared: "The agreement was signed as the result of collective bargaining. We used the pen instead of bayonets as they are trying to do in Harlan county."

"Union labor in Kentucky condemns the amazing act of Governor Chandler in sending troops into Harlan during the time when there was every possibility and reason to believe a satisfactory agreement could be reached."

"We no longer regard him (the governor) as a friend of labor regardless of his statement to the contrary."

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, in command of the state troops ordered here by Governor Chandler as mines closed since March 31 opened, said the 400 additional soldiers had not been called to duty but "alerted" for possible quick movement. There were almost 800 militiamen here.

Protests to Roosevelt
William Turnblazer, president of the Harlan district of the United Mine Workers, who yesterday urged President Roosevelt to protest over the presence of troops charging the soldiers are being "used as a strike-breaking agency" and asked that he sign it.

Bandit Gang Surprised at Work; 2 Held

Two Others Escape During Exchange of Gunfire in Minnesota

OFFICERS UNHURT
Prisoners Believed to be Members of 'Cream Can' Mob

Sargeant, Minn.—(P)—Four Minnesota officers early today surprised a gang of four "cream can" bandits robbing the State Bank of Sargeant and wounded and captured two of them after a gunfight. Two others escaped.

Identity of the two captured men was not immediately determined. Neither was seriously wounded. They were taken to Austin for questioning.

Two cream cans filled with water to cool safe drilling equipment, tell-tale equipment of a gang that has looted banks and stores in several towns in Minnesota and nearby states, were left at the bank.

Philip Martin, local storekeeper, saw the gang at work in the bank about 3:30 a. m. and called officers at Austin.

Deputy Sheriff Lon Enochson of Mower county and three Austin patrolmen raced to Sargeant with a machine gun. Two went to the front of the bank, two to the rear.

Apparently warned by a lookout, two bandits fled out the back door, shooting. Officers opened fire with the machine gun. One of the fleeing men was captured after being wounded in the shoulder. His companion escaped.

When the two officers at the front of the bank ran to the aid of those at the back, the other two bandits made a break out the front door. One of these was captured later as he came down the railroad tracks, but his companion escaped.

The second man captured had been shot in the wrist.

When they were interrupted, the bandits had already drilled through the vault and had taken about $50 in change and were trying to open the safe that contained most of the bank's cash.

This was the fourth attempt in the last two years by a cream can gang to rob the bank.

Drunken Driver Fined $100, Costs

Stanley R. Johnson, 33, Hinsdale, Ill., Pleads Guilty to Charge

Stanley R. Johnson, 33, 726 S. Lincoln street, Hinsdale, Ill., pleaded guilty of drunken driving when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning.

The motorist was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 60 days in the county detention camp under both the city and state laws.

As he is an out-of-state resident, his driving license is not revoked. The sentences are to run consecutively unless the fines are paid. Johnson was arrested at 3:15 yesterday afternoon at Badger avenue and Mason street by city police.

His companion, Joseph Winetsky, 32, 118 E. Kimball street, pleaded guilty of drunkenness and was fined $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the county detention camp.

Justice Department Launches New Probe Of Oil Companies

Washington.—(P)—Attorney General Murphy announced yesterday that the justice department had begun a new inquiry into oil company practices in the 10 midwestern states.

He said witnesses had been subpoenaed to appear before the regular grand jury for the Eastern district of Illinois at Danville on June 5.

Murphy offered two general reasons for the new inquiry:

1. Indications that practices on which the oil trail at Madison, Wis., in 1936 was based "have not been wholly abandoned in the oil industry."
2. A desire to have the grand jury question some of the persons named in previous indictments in an effort to "compel them to disclose all the facts within their knowledge" about the department's contention that midwestern gasoline prices have been "artificially maintained."

McGee Is Re-elected Railroad President

New York.—(P)—Homer E. McGee, Green Bay, Wis., was re-elected president of the Green Bay and Western railroad at the annual directors' meeting today. Edgar Palmer, New York, was re-elected vice president and Charles W. Cox, New York, secretary-treasurer. The vacancy on the board created by the death of Frank B. Seymour, former president of the road, was left unfilled.

Former Banker Is Found Guilty on 3 Counts at Wausau

Wausau.—(P)—Henry F. Bartz, 68-year-old former president of the Coloma State bank, was convicted by a circuit court jury today on three counts of violating the state banking laws. He was cleared of three other counts.

The jury deliberated 10 hours yesterday and 3 hours this morning before finding Bartz guilty of issuing a fraudulent $3,500 certificate of deposit, of making a false record concerning this certificate and of conspiring with Cashier Allen A. Gibbs to violate the law.

The three counts on which Bartz was acquitted concerned a $1,000 certificate of deposit.

Bartz was released on $1,000 bond pending defense motions after the verdict. Judge George J. Leicht did not set a date for hearing the motions.

Gibbs, who is serving a prison term for banking law violations, testified during the trial that Bartz directed him to issue the certificates and ordered false entries.

Henderson Nominated For Full Term in SEC

Washington.—(P)—President Roosevelt nominated Leon Henderson of New Jersey today for a full term on the securities commission expiring June 5, 1944. Henderson was confirmed recently for the remainder of the term of William O. Douglas, now a member of the supreme court.

Denmark Accepts Reich's Bid For Talks on Non-Aggression Pact; Three Others Decline

Berlin.—(P)—Denmark today cautiously accepted Germany's offer of negotiations for a non-aggression pact while Sweden, Norway and Finland politely declined Chancellor Hitler's proposals of parallel accords.

Danish sources said, however, that their country did not pledge herself to accept such a pact under any and all circumstances. It still has to be negotiated, Denmark is the only one of the four states having a common frontier with Germany.

The ministers of the four powers were received separately by Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, state secretary in the foreign office, when they delivered their three "noes" and one "yes."

Two questions concerning which Denmark was disclosed to be especially anxious were:

1. Will Germany demand a plebiscite in North Schleswig before signing a pact on the grounds that

Senate Won't Delay Action On Budget Bill

Progressives Beaten, 17 To 15, in Seeking Day's Adjournment

EXPECT APPROVAL
Upper House O. K. Is Seen for Provisions Adopted in Assembly

Madison.—(P)—Majority forces refused today for the second time to postpone senate action on the $67,700,000 state budget bill, scheduled for tomorrow.

Senator Philip E. Nelson, Maple, who had planned to join other Progressives in a fight for increased appropriations, especially for educational purposes, renewed his unsuccessful motion of yesterday to delay the bill until Friday and it was again rejected, 17 to 15. Asserting he would be unable to attend tomorrow's session because of the funeral of a relative, Nelson obtained a leave of absence.

Barring unforeseen developments the senate is expected to approve the budget in the same form as recently passed by the house.

The bill of Senator Walter Rusk (P) Neillsville, to allow free competition by municipalities with private utilities was killed today on a vote that followed party lines closely. Rush, only senator to speak for the measure, contended the present law requiring approval of the public service commission, had resulted in long legal delays in many acquisition cases.

Concerns in Bills
The senate concurred in assembly bills granting county boards the right to waive interest on delinquent real estate taxes from 1931 to 1936 and extending from 12 to 18 months the time that foods may be kept in cold storage.

A bill requiring dealers in poultry and poultry products to obtain licenses from the department of agriculture and markets and surety bonds of at least $1,000 was passed and sent to the assembly. Similar action was taken on a bill allowing foreign corporations to be licensed to sell fermented malt beverages at wholesale within the state.

The assembly passed and sent to the senate a bill enabling school districts to furnish resident and non-resident high school students transportation at the expense of parents and guardians. It engrossed and advanced toward passage two other bills relating to high school tuition and transportation.

Territorial Ghetto
As soon as the British government policy was announced, the Jewish agency for Palestine issued a statement saying that the British plan "sets up a territorial ghetto for the Jews in their own homeland."

Jewish officials made it clear that they would refuse to cooperate in any way in putting the scheme into practice.

They said they would oppose it in its passage through the house of commons and the League of Nations and they threatened to take it before the permanent court for international justice at the Hague if it passes through the house and the league.

Approve Changes In Security Law
Committee Would Add Benefits for Aged, Widows and Orphans

Washington.—(P)—The house ways and means committee has given its final approval to proposed changes in the social security law adding $120,000,000 to benefits in the next five years for the aged and for widows, orphans and dependent parents.

Members disclosed today the committee had rejected a motion by Representative Robertson (D-Va.) to delete the new or additional benefits from legislation under consideration.

The proposals would increase old-age pensions in the early years of the security system and would lower them later. Benefit payments would start next Jan. 1 instead of Jan. 1, 1942.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, social security board chairman, said there would be no net increase in the cost of the system as a whole.

Proposed Changes
Under the new plan, a worker who becomes 65 years old Jan. 1, 1940, and who has been making an average of $100 a month since the old-age insurance program went into effect Jan. 1, 1937, could retire on his birthday anniversary in 1940 and get benefits of $25.75 a month for the rest of his life. Under present law he would get one lump sum payment of $126.

If his wife also were 65, he would receive $50 per cent more, or a total of $38.63 a month. On his death, the widow would get three-fourths of the amount of her husband's benefit, or $19.31 monthly while she lived.

Benefits also would be provided for younger widows and minor children.

Burglaries Suspect Under $5,000 Bond

Jefferson, Wis.—(P)—George R. Vicklund, 28, was under $5,000 bond today for a hearing May 25 on charges of committing two burglaries in Watertown.

Vicklund, arrested at Ft. Atkinson, said his home was in St. Paul, Minn., but that he was born in Superior, Wis.

Sheriff Harry O'Brien said Vicklund yesterday confessed robberies at Green Bay and Beaver Dam in addition to thefts he previously had admitted at Wausau, Stevens Point, Antigo and Rhinelander.

Women Voters Oppose War Referendum Bill
Washington.—(P)—The National League of Women Voters opposed war referendum legislation in a statement today to the senate judiciary committee.

The statement, forwarded by Vice President Louis G. Baldwin, said that a national vote on whether the nation should go to war "offers no sure and certain safeguard against the involvement of this country in a foreign war."

The committee is holding hearings on the war referendum proposal submitted by Senator La Follette (D-Wis.).

Dominion Cheers Royal Couple at Quebec Landing

Britain Reveals Program for Arab State in Holy Land
Would Limit Jews to One-Third of Population In Palestine

Jerusalem.—(P)—The Jerusalem radio station was forced off the air tonight just as it began to broadcast the British government's white paper on Palestine's future government and it was believed sabotage was the reason.

Welcomes King
Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King (above) today welcomed King George and Queen Elizabeth to the Dominion of Canada as they landed in Quebec. He delivered his address at the government's luncheon in honor of the royal couple.

London.—(P)—The British government announced its intention tonight to establish an independent Arab-dominated state of Palestine in which the Jews would be limited to one-third of the population.

A white paper setting forth Britain's plan for the future of the Holy Land said:

"Jewish immigration (into Palestine) during the next five years will be at a rate which . . . will bring the Jewish population up to approximately one-third of the total population of the country."

The government estimated that, as the Arab birth rate is rising the Jews would, under the one-third rule, be allowed to bring 75,000 of their people into the Holy Land in the next five years.

But the official white paper added:

"His majesty's government are satisfied that when the immigration over the five years which is now contemplated has taken place they will not be justified in facilitating, nor will they be under any obligation to facilitate, the further development of the Jewish national home by immigration."

Territorial Ghetto
As soon as the British government policy was announced, the Jewish agency for Palestine issued a statement saying that the British plan "sets up a territorial ghetto for the Jews in their own homeland."

Jewish officials made it clear that they would refuse to cooperate in any way in putting the scheme into practice.

They said they would oppose it in its passage through the house of commons and the League of Nations and they threatened to take it before the permanent court for international justice at the Hague if it passes through the house and the league.

Brokers in London Trying to Prevent Export of Capital

Agree Not to Quote U. S. Securities Until Further Notice

London.—(P)—Seeking to stem the export of British capital, principally to the United States, London stock brokers today reached an agreement not to quote American securities until further notice.

This move followed a statement in the house of commons yesterday by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, cautioning British investors against sending their funds abroad.

The effect of the brokers' agreement was understood to be that brokers will cease to list American securities on their boards or advise purchase of American issues in circulars to their clients.

The move was reported directed especially against the giving of such advice.

Lists Published
If investors insist on buying American securities it is expected that brokers will remind them of the chancellor of the exchequer's statement and reserve the right to refuse to handle the transaction.

London newspapers today continued to print lists of American stock quotations.

London financial circles also said that an unofficial request to desist from quoting trans-Atlantic (United States shares) had been sent to brokers by the Bank of England in the form of a note calling attention to Sir John's statement.

The chancellor of the exchequer told commons yesterday that he had asked one insurance company to cease issuing a circular advocating the sending of funds to the United States.

"I have taken definite steps about it and I think they will be effective," he said.

Sir John said April 20 that "the good sense of investors will induce them to limit the export of capital at the present time when the requirements of national defense are so great would be deleterious to the national interest."

Critically Burned as Gas in Sewer Explodes

Eau Claire, Wis.—(P)—Alvin C. Bauman, 27, Eau Claire, was critically burned yesterday when gas in a sewer in which he was working exploded.

All his clothing was burned off except his shirt, which was blazing when fire Chief Lawrence Smith climbed into the pit to tie a rope around the unconscious man's body and help lift him out.

George Polze, working with Bauman, was tossed several yards by the blast which occurred as he leaned over the manhole. He suffered burns about the head and arms.

Both men are employees of the Oke Construction company, of St. Paul, which has a contract to lay an intercepting sewer. The cause of the explosion had not been determined tonight.

Women Voters Oppose War Referendum Bill

Washington.—(P)—The National League of Women Voters opposed war referendum legislation in a statement today to the senate judiciary committee.

The statement, forwarded by Vice President Louis G. Baldwin, said that a national vote on whether the nation should go to war "offers no sure and certain safeguard against the involvement of this country in a foreign war."

The committee is holding hearings on the war referendum proposal submitted by Senator La Follette (D-Wis.).

'We are All of One Household,' Premier States

WILD WELCOME
George VI First British Monarch to Land On Continent

Quebec.—(P)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told King George and Queen Elizabeth today that "today, as never before, the throne has become the center of our national life."

The prime minister's address of welcome was delivered at the Dominion government's luncheon for the king and queen.

"We would have your majesties feel that, in coming from the old land to the new, you have left one home to come to another; that we are all of one household," Mackenzie King said.

"Free institutions and democratic ideals are as dear to the hearts of your people in Canada as to the peoples in any other part of the empire. We regard their preservation and perpetuation as the common concern of all."

"Greater than our sense of the splendor of your state is our affection for two young people who bear, in so high a spirit, a responsibility unparalleled in the world."

Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the senate, welcomed the king and queen "in the capital of New France" and said that French-speaking Canadians "from loyal hearts" greet the king with "Vive le Roi."

Quebec.—(P)—King George VI today made the first reigning British monarch to set foot on North American soil when he and Queen Elizabeth landed at Quebec for their tour of the United States and Canada.

The king and queen made their landing from the liner Empress of Australia at 8:34 a. m. C.S.T. to be welcomed by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and leaders of Canada and the province of Quebec.

The ceremonial welcome took place in the shadow of the giant cliffs which General Wolfe's army scaled 180 years ago to win "New France" for the British crown.

King George wore the uniform of an admiral of the fleet. The queen was dressed in a pearly gray ensemble with an off-the-face hat of the same color.

Tremendous Welcome
King George made his way down the flag-decked gangway just a step ahead of his smiling consort. A tremendous welcome arose, cheering, pealing bells, screeching ships' whistles, the roar of airplanes.

Canada's first view of her sovereign was one of pleasing and unexpected informality, the king and queen smiling and waving from the ship's rail to crowds below just before the landing.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King awaited their majesties at the foot of the gangplank as they came ashore.

The landing was delayed a few minutes because the king and queen stopped to say goodbye to the line of officers and men. Cannon roared the 21-gun royal salute as their majesties left the ship.

The arrival was two days behind the original schedule, delayed by fog and ice hazards of the North Atlantic.

The crowds got their first good view of the king when he left the welcoming dais and, with an officer, rode across the hollow square to inspect the guard of a company of Canadian Grenadier Guards.

Enter Over Car
He moved quickly down the front rank, then the rear. Meanwhile, the specially-built royal automobile, with the royal standard flying, moved into position before the dais.

The king and queen entered the open car, a gray robe was thrown over them.

German Baron Says Deportation Would Result in His Death

Washington.—(P)—A 26-year-old German baron and his pet blonde were great aids to the immigration committee today to save them from deportation to Germany where the baron said he was under sentence of death for avoiding military service.

Baron Carl von Mauchenheim, employed by the Ford Motor company in Detroit as a mechanical engineer, told the committee he fled from military conscription in 1935 and entered the United States with the Baroness Margaret von Mauchenheim on visitor's visas. He testified the baroness was considered "an accessory to the crime and she would have to expect

Teacher Tenure Measure Sent to Chief Executive

Governor Also Gets Bill Repealing Law on Tavern Bonds

Madison—(P)—Governor Julius Hell received today for his signature or veto two bills passed last night by the assembly—one excluding teachers more than 65 years old from provisions of the teacher's tenure law and the other repealing a law requiring tavern operators to post bonds.

The assembly also engrossed and advanced toward passage the Gruszka bill prohibiting beer sales between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock a. m. and by a top-heavy 78 to 5 vote defeated a measure permitting counties to license slot machines.

The bill affecting teachers was passed after the assembly concurred in a senate amendment leaving supervising teachers, principals and superintendents under the present law regardless of age. As originally introduced by Assemblyman Shimmek (D) of Alcona, the measure would have included all teachers over 65.

The tenure law provides permanent tenure for teachers after they pass a five year probationary period.

Tavern Bonds Bill
Legislative action on a senate bill repealing the law requiring bonds of tavern operators was completed when the assembly voted concurrence, 78 to 5.

Tavernkeepers under the present law must post a $200 cash or $1,000 surety bond.

Supporters of the bill claimed the bond did not benefit the operators because of a supreme court ruling last year holding the bond could be attached for more than the fines or court costs assessed against operators arising out of liquor law violations.

After considering numerous amendments, the house engrossed the Gruszka bill banning beer sales between 1 and 6 o'clock a. m. except on New Year's eve, when no closing regulations would be enforced. It would allow hotels, restaurants and bona fide clubs holding tavern licenses to remain open for the conduct of their ordinary business, with the proviso no beer be sold. Regulations now are fixed by local ordinance.

The slot machine measure would have levied a $100 annual license fee on each slot machine and restricted licenses to owners who would maintain the devices only in their established places of business.

Also sent to the governor were assembly-concurred senate bills enabling the governor to set aside one day each year as citizenship day, and requiring county and township intendents to conduct an adult citizenship training course for citizens reaching 21 with a program of instruction on the third Sunday of May each year.

Wiley Seeking to Restore Increase Tariff on Fox Fur
Washington—(P)—Restoration of a higher fox fur tariff will be sought by Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) in the face of an adverse report from the office of Secretary of State Hull, he said.

He placed in the Congressional Record a joint memorial of the Wisconsin state legislature asking restoration of the former tariff the same day he received the Hull report unfavorable to the idea.

In spite of the administration attack on restoration of fox fur tariffs as evidenced by the report from Hull, Wiley said, "I intend to continue a vigorous fight for that proposal."

He said the tariff of 50 per cent ad valorem was reduced to 37 1/2 per cent in the trade agreement with Canada last Jan. 1 and reported that Hull viewed the restoration bill as conflicting with the Canadian agreement effective for three years.

"They do not want to abrogate that agreement," Wiley said, "but this is an important matter in northern Wisconsin where we produce half of the nation's total fox fur supply."

He added import figures for the first quarter of this year show more fox fur pelts were brought into this country than during all of 1938.

Youth, 21, Wounded
Accidentally From Gun Held by Another

Jarlene Hinkens, 21, son of Mrs. John Hinkens, Little Chute, was accidentally wounded in the right leg Tuesday afternoon by a bullet from a gun held by his companion, Roger Koehn, Little Chute. The two youths were walking along the Fox river near Little Chute when the 22 calibre rifle held by Koehn accidentally discharged. The bullet pierced the calf of Hinkens' leg.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital and the attending physician today reported the wound was not serious.

Reduced Premiums In Insurance Is Safety Dividend

Saving Effect in Bodily Injury, Property Damage on Car Policies

Safety will pay a dividend of over one million dollars to Wisconsin motorists in 1939, the state highway commission reveals. The dividend will be in the form of reduced premiums on bodily injury and property damage insurance on automobiles insured in Wisconsin this year.

Wisconsin last year had its lowest number of fatalities in a decade, setting a safety record surpassed only by Iowa and Nebraska in the middle west. Promotion of highway safety in Wisconsin is sponsored by the state highway commission, with city and county safety councils directing the programs in their communities.

Effective May 1, and retroactive on policies renewed or written since March 1, insurance companies affiliated with the National Bureau of Automobile Underwriters have reduced their premiums on bodily injury and property damage in Wisconsin by 20 per cent. Several other firms also have declared premium cuts ranging from 10 to 30 per cent, the larger reductions being given in most cases by firms that did not allow "safe driver" rebates of 10 or 15 per cent after a motorist had driven a year without an accident.

According to Wisconsin insurance officials, rates on automobile insurance in the Badger state already were lower than in the majority of states. The 20 per cent reduction is being declared in about 30 states that had excellent safety records last year.

Senior Class to Give Annual Play

'Mother Mine' to be Staged Thursday at St. John High School

Little Chute—The senior class of St. John High school will enact the drama "Mother Mine" at the school auditorium at 7:30 Thursday evening. A matinee performance for grade school children was presented Wednesday. This is the first literary work of Gladys Ruth Brigham ever produced by the local school. The play is being given under the direction of the Rev. G. Van Nuland, speech director of the school. Between the first and second acts the members of the class will sing "Morning Invitation" by George A. Veazie, and between the second and third acts the same group will sing "Spring Song" by Arthur Pearson. The vocal numbers are under the direction of Sister Mary Albertona, senior home room supervisor. Miss Elizabeth Schuchter will be the accompanist.

Those who will take part in the play are: Lucille Timmers, Ann Van Zealand, Nelda Wildenberg, Dolores Zarnow, Evelyn De Groot, Joan Van Susteren, Norbert Klisdonk, Francis Hermen, Eugene Haen, Earl Jansen, Paul Dercks and Albert Huisman.

The feast of the Ascension will be observed at St. John church Thursday. Masses will be said at the same time as on Sundays with the exception of the high mass which will be sung at 7:30. Benediction will follow the high mass.

A daughter was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McCormack. Mrs. McCormack formerly was Miss Helen Van Handle.

The Rev. Martin Vander Loop returned to Sunburst, Mont., Tuesday after 10 days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vander Loop, Wilson street. They were called here because of the serious illness of their father, whose condition is now somewhat improved.

The condition of John Laycraft, who has been seriously ill at St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay, is slightly improved. He submitted to a major operation.

Sister M. Ludwina of St. Louis, Mo., is visiting her mother Mrs. John Laycraft for a week.

Events Strengthen Rumors of Rift Between Heil, Zimmerman

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Rumors of coolness between Wisconsin's present Republican governor, Julius P. Heil, and a former Republican governor who is now secretary of state, Fred R. Zimmerman, absorbed capital gossipers today as they coincided with events which tended to strengthen them.

The present governor has let it be known through his political associates that he doesn't like the reports which have been circulated—whether spontaneously or by an organized effort—that Zimmerman is going to try to get the second term in the governor's chair next year which most Wisconsin governors have been accorded.

Zimmerman, for his part, has dropped hints lately that he expected Heil to give him more attention, because of his previous experiences as chief executive, than he has given him.

It has been clear that the relations of Heil and Zimmerman have not been intimate. Then last week the assembly revived a bill which was once killed, and passed it hurriedly and dispatched it to the senate.

Bill Is Revived
The bill proposes to take away from the secretary of state's office the distribution of auto license plates and to transfer that job to the county clerks of the state.

Assembly approval of the bill was widely interpreted as an administrative slap at Zimmerman, for the distribution of license plates is regarded in Wisconsin politics as one of the most effective means of political advertising available to any state office-holder.

The secretary of state's name emblazons all of the envelopes containing the plates, and all of the correspondence between his office and some 700,000 Wisconsin motorists. One politician once estimated that the resultant publicity is worth at least $100,000 to the secretary of state who is ambitious for higher office, measured by the costs of campaign publicity of other candidates.

Questioned on the passage of the bill yesterday, Zimmerman said that while he felt the change in the distribution would be inefficient, and uneconomical, he isn't going to oppose the measure when it gets to the senate.

Observers recalled, however, that rumors of resentment of Heil to Zimmerman antedated their inauguration early last year, that they coincided with Zimmerman's court contest of the LaFollette "treasury raids" after the election last fall.

Took Limelight
Zimmerman started action to prevent disbursement by the outgoing state officials of several million dollars which had been appropriated by the outgoing emergency board controlled by Phil LaFollette.

Zimmerman became the chief figure in the Republican fight against the LaFollette attempt to pay off sundry large bills before the arrival of the new administration. He headed the party which was about to take over.

Heil resented this, it was said, and it is recalled that just before the conclusion of the court case, Heil sent his personal attorneys to participate in the fight before the state supreme court, which ended in victory for the Republican contenders.

Zimmerman, however, scouts talk about his projected candidacy for governor, despite the fact that it has been circulated constantly in party circles for weeks. "I only want to be reelected secretary of state", he says.

VOICE OPPOSITION
Madison—(P)—Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, L. A. Gordon of the State Employees association and William S. Card of the Wisconsin Conference on Social Legislation voiced opposition yesterday to an administration bill which would consolidate all motor vehicle regulatory functions in one department.

They appeared before the senate highway committee hearing a consolidation measure by Senator Kenneth White of River Falls which would create a new department under a director, a deputy director and division heads. It would remove from Zimmerman's office a large part of its present work.

"The purpose of consolidation is all right," Zimmerman said, "but to take the work from six experienced people and give it to six new, inexperienced men is wrong. I don't know why other departments concerned are not represented here—whether they were told to stay away or warned to—but I don't have to wait for permission to appear."

"The work of the assistant secretary of state is entirely taken up with auto license registration and the work of the secretary of state's office is about half concerned with that job. Take it away and you have an idle assistant and a secretary of state with a half-time job."

C. R. Dimmen of Milwaukee, representing the Associated Contract Carriers of Wisconsin, endorsed the White bill which the author promised would save the state thousands of dollars annually and simplify the procedure for motorists and truckers.

Hunt For 2 Others
None of the officers was hurt in the exchange of gunfire. Deputy Enochson disclosed later that he had used an empty gun to catch one of the two seized. As he chased his quarry down the railroad tracks, he brandished the gun he had emptied at the bank and called upon the bandit to surrender. The men complied.

Authorities throughout southern Minnesota joined in a hunt for the two who evaded capture.

A check today showed cream bandits had stolen loot totaling approximately $300,000 in a little more than a year.

Shortly before noon state crime bureau officials announced the captured pair had been tentatively identified as Walter Morrell, 29, who was released from the state prison last July, and John Howard, 29, of St. Paul.

Team Captains in Poppy Day Drive Are Named Today

Oney Johnston Post Auxiliary to Hold Campaign on May 27

Poppies, America's flowers of remembrance for its World war dead, will be brought to everyone in Appleton on Poppy day, Saturday, May 27, by an efficiently organized corps of women volunteers.

Completion of the Poppy day organization was announced today by Mrs. George B. Culligan, chairman, and Mrs. E. E. Bewick, co-chairman, of the Appleton unit of the American Legion auxiliary.

"All women who have volunteered to distribute poppies have been assigned to teams and each team has been given a specified location in the city. All parts of the city will be covered so that everyone will have an opportunity to wear a poppy in honor of those who gave their lives in defense of democracy in 1917 and 1918," Mrs. Culligan said.

A captain will direct each team. Team captains are: Mrs. Clarence Baetz, Mrs. August Arons, Mrs. Ray Curry, Mrs. Elmer Schabo, Mrs. George Culligan, Mrs. Leslie Holzer, Mrs. Cliff Rader, Mrs. Leonard Ney, Mrs. Fred Gehrke, Mrs. William Laux, Mrs. Lloyd Root, Mrs. Eric Mathisen, Mrs. Herb Farand, Mrs. Carl Schroeder, Mrs. Gertrude Leeman, Mrs. Floyd Haddock, Mrs. Bert Bewick, Mrs. Fannie Spencer, Mrs. Ed Lutz, Mrs. Phil Miller, Mrs. Joe Treiber, Mrs. Otto Beetz, Mrs. William Retza, Mrs. Robert Olson, Mrs. Harry Cunningham, Mrs. Ray Kleist, Mrs. Harm Tornow, Mrs. Blanche Jannes, Mrs. George Hogreiver, Mrs. Stanley Staidl and Mrs. Emmery Greunke.

The local poppy workers will be part of an army of more than 100,000 women who will distribute the little red memorial flowers throughout the country on Poppy day. More than ten million Americans are expected to wear poppies that day and to make contributions for the welfare of the disabled war veterans, their families and the families of the dead.

Hundreds of disabled veterans have been employed for months making the flowers, working at their beds or in the occupational therapy departments of government hospitals, and in special poppy workrooms maintained by the auxiliary.

Nazis Undertake Broad Census to Determine Plans

Figures to Have Decisive Effect on Future Training in Germany

Berlin—(P)—A volunteer army of 70,000 Germans began work today on a census which will afford the Nazi regime information on which to base further regulations of the life of the nation.

Of important purpose of the count, it was stated officially, is to determine exactly what callings, trades, professions or branches of labor are too scantily supplied to satisfy the needs of the nation, and which ones are overcrowded from the national viewpoint.

Meanwhile the axis powers, Germany and Italy, emphasized "colonial solidarity"—united action for overseas gains—as a new phase of their policy. Simultaneous tours of fortified frontier zones overlooking France by Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini under-scored the axis unity.

Propaganda Material
Figures revealed by Germany's census are expected to have decisive effect on German education and vocational training of the future.

Another phase of the enumeration expected to produce material for propaganda in international controversies is a series of three questions.

1. Of what country is the individual a citizen? 2. What is his mother tongue? 3. Of what "folkdom" does he feel himself a part?

An authoritative informant said that a man living on the French-German or Belgian-German frontier, for instance, might say that he was a French or Belgian citizen and his mother tongue French but that he really felt himself a member of the German "folkdom."

French Writer Says There's No Chance Of Immediate War

New York—(P)—Andre Maurois, French writer, believes there will be no immediate European war because "none of them over there will start a war without the certainty of winning—and none have that."

"Woodrow Wilson had the right idea," said Maurois, who sailed today on the French liner Normandie, "but he had the wrong approach. The league of nations some day may be the solution of the problem. Wilson's faith was not in man but in humanity, and that was his mistake."

The author, who is writing a life of President Wilson, said he would return in the fall for a series of lectures at Harvard university. He was accompanied by his wife.

Fred B. Snite, Jr., Chicago infantile paralysis victim, also sailed to make a nine-day novena at the shrine of miracles in Lourdes, France.

Smiling in his "iron lung," he held a reunion aboard ship with former classmates at Notre Dame university. With him went his parents, six nurses, two orderlies, Dr. C. O. Adams, Chicago orthopedic specialist, and Denis Scanlon, respirator designer.

Industry Worried Over Measure for Control of Lakes

Paper Manufacturer Wants Bill Killed or Winnebago Excluded

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Fox River Valley industrialists who depend on water power for energy purposes are concerned about the possible results of a bill now before the legislature which would provide for control of the water levels of all bodies of water which contain fish, it was learned today.

The measure, introduced by the joint committee on finance and now in the hands of the senate committee on state and local government, would allow the conservation commission to certify "fishing waters," and provide that the public service commission would forbid a difference between maximum and minimum water levels in such waters of more than one and one-half feet.

"Fishing waters" are defined in the proposal as those in which the catching of fish by legal methods is "a reasonable probability."

Government Control
One prominent Valley paper manufacturer pointed out that the level of Lake Winnebago, now controlled by the federal war department, affects the water flow of the Fox River upon which many of the local industries depend. Moreover, he explained, the catching of fish in Lake Winnebago can be considered "a reasonable probability," so that the lake is apparently intended to be covered by the bill.

In letters to representatives from that area, he asked that the bill be killed or Lake Winnebago be excluded.

The war department controls the water level of Lake Winnebago to the satisfaction of navigation, industrial and riparian interests at the present time only with the greatest difficulty, he added.

Source of the bill was somewhat of a mystery today. Neither the public service or the conservation commission professed to know anything about it.

Number of Taverns in State Has Decreased
The per capita consumption of beer in Wisconsin during 1938 was 2.3 of a barrel for each resident of the state, John W. Roach, chief of the beverage tax division, said before the Kenosha Tavern league at Kenosha this afternoon.

Approximately 38,000 persons are estimated to be engaged in the tavern business in Wisconsin, he said, and there are about 1,354 persons to each license issued for the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption off the premises and 224 persons for each license issued for the consumption of alcoholic beverages on the premises.

There are about 13,000 taverns in the state at present as compared with 16,000 in 1934, and this decrease indicates that local governing bodies are exercising more discretion in the type of persons to whom they are issuing licenses.

Hitler's Proposed Trade Deal With Yugoslavia Would be big Step in 'Drive to the East'

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(P)—Fuehrer Hitler will have achieved a far-reaching success in his "drive to the east" if the great Balkan nation of Yugoslavia accepts a projected trade proposal involving virtual direction of its industrial development by Germany for the next 10 years.

This agreement, which informed business quarters in the Yugoslav capital expect to be signed shortly, has as its foundation a 10-year credit of 200,000,000 marks from Germany, at 6 per cent interest.

Nobody can say just what the equivalent of this many marks would be in United States dollars, because the value of the mark is arbitrarily fixed for such trade deals and it varies. It might be $80,000,000, but likely would be considerably less.

Barter Basis
The deal is on the barter basis. Yugoslavia would exchange minerals—which Germany sorely needs, especially for rearmament—for manufactured goods.

This proposal cuts much deeper than a mere trade proposition. Yugoslavia's political influence in the Balkans is vast.

From the military standpoint Yugoslavia is of greater strategic importance in this cockpit than any other of the fiery Balkan states except Turkey, which controls the Dardanelles straits—gateway between the Mediterranean and the Black Sea.

Indeed, Yugoslavia is so much in the nature of a military keystone for this part of Europe that it finds itself in the uncomfortable position of being an almost certain battleground if by chance Germany and Italy ever should go to war with each other.

You need only a quick glance at your map to recognize the position. Note the way its northwestern corner runs up between Italy and Germany (Austria) like a piece of pie. There is the long stretch of coast on the Adriatic. There is contact with Hungary, and every one of the other Balkan states excepting Turkey—Romania, Bulgaria, Greece, and Albania.

Would Obtain Control
This proposed deal is an excellent illustration of an important aspect of the reich's scheme of politico-economic penetration "to the east." Its purpose, of course, is to obtain domination, both economically and politically—a political control being an inevitable corollary of economic control.

In the case of Yugoslavia, Germany's economic influence already is so great that the smaller nation is, so to speak, a natural ally of the reich. Yugoslavia is almost wholly dependent on Germany to absorb more than 50 per cent of its former's products. Obviously, with no alternative market, the severance of this trade would be a catastrophe.

Germany's proposal of virtual direction of the Yugoslav industrial development for a decade means that the reich intends to coordinate Yugoslav industry with German needs. Germany projects to build a huge market for her manufactured goods, and increase those Yugoslav products which the reich most needs.

Sitting Pretty
That in a nutshell is the plan which Germany expects to inaugurate, not only in Yugoslavia but throughout eastern Europe and most of the Balkans. Geographically the fatherland is sitting pretty, since most of the nations in that part of the world are, like Yugoslavia, largely dependent on Germany to absorb their products.

A few hours before announcement of the near-conclusion of the German-Yugoslav agreement, I was chatting with a European government official, and we took a look at Herr Hitler's drive.

"Supposing," I said, "that Hitler abandoned those tactics which have given rise to the Anglo-French 'anti-aggression' campaign, and devoted his energies to 'peaceful penetration.' With his favorable geographical set-up and the politico-economic influence he already wields, what could stop him?"

"Nothing could stop him, and I don't see why he doesn't do it," was the reply.

Florida Senate Cracks Down on Pension Scheme
Decisive Vote Recorded Against $200-a-Month Benefits

Tallahassee, Fla.—(P)—State pensions of $200-a-month for aged persons in Florida, a haven for the elderly, appeared indefinitely delayed today following overwhelming defeat by the senate last night of the hotly-debated proposal.

Senator Spessard Holland read a telegram from Dr. Francis E. Townsend, promulgator of the Townsend pension plan, disclaiming individual state efforts as "doomed to failure."

Soon afterwards, as scores of elderly persons watched tensely from the gallery, the body voted 28 to 8 against the proposal to finance pensions with a 2 per cent transactions tax. The benefit would have gone to persons 60 years and older, at least five years resident of the state, with provisions they spend it within

Split Likely in Democratic Party, Lawrence States

Tax Revision Is Issue Which May Cause Defeat of Administration

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—History repeats itself every now and then in American politics, and this time the issue is tax revision and the split in one of the major parties comes on the eve of a presidential election.

Back in 1911 the Republican party in congress split on the tariff and cost of living issues, and the insurgent point of view of the Republicans was a factor in giving the election to the opposite party in 1912. Today, the Democratic party is either going to be split on tax revision and the issue carried into the presidential campaign, with a probability that the opposite party will win, or else the Democrats are going to be astute enough to avoid the mistakes of insurgency and keep their party reconciled.

But it does look more like a split than a harmonious relationship. The reason is that the New Dealers, after a remarkable period of understanding of the public pulse, now disbelieve that the 1938 congressional elections really meant anything national and want to let the 1940 election contest decide.

New Deal Belief

Tax revision is not what the New Deal folks think it is as a political issue. They assume that it is merely the cry of a few rich men or plutocratic interests for a reduction in taxes. If this were so, it would be an easy matter to turn on the streams of denunciation and invective and trust to the electorate to echo their charges. But tax revision has become identified with economic recovery. Little business, big business, workers in the middle class, farmers and others in the electorate who can read have been told again and again these last three years that business recovery cannot be achieved until the tax load on general business is reduced.

By every available evidence, including the frequent showings of the Gallup poll, the American electorate has begun to take seriously the demand for a revision of taxes. The administration's only answer, namely that taxes cannot be cut unless revenues from other sources increase or else unless the budget itself is cut, would be very persuasive if offered on a background of retrenchment by the administration itself or if recognition had been continuously given to the ills of business in some sort of comprehensive program.

But, rightly or wrongly, the administration is being pictured before the country as the enemy of business and the New Deal's inner circle is being represented as truly anxious to bring on a state of affairs in which more rather than less governmental regulation will become necessary.

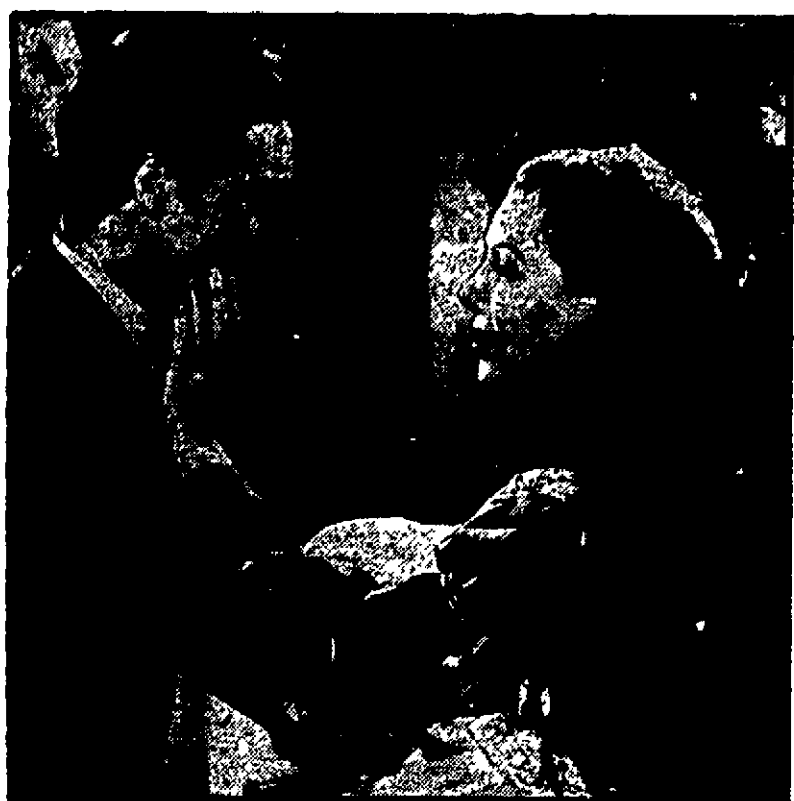

One does not need for a moment to accept as valid the imputations of destructiveness or of the punitive spirit said by their critics to be characteristic of New Dealers to see that there is inside congress a definite cleavage as between independent Democrats and administration Democrats. The differences between them are neither accidental nor casual. They are deeply rooted in a point of view. Most of the administration Democrats are following without complaint the leadership of the president, while the independent Democrats are insisting that the president's leadership is not in conformity with public opinion today or in the best interests of the party.

Mr. Roosevelt feels that, in the past, he has been a pretty good judge of public opinion and that he has not been wrong about the liberal impulses of the American people, and that they will not want him to change his course if it does so means to give up the reforms he has been putting into effect.

On fiscal policy, however, and especially on taxation, it is not easy to draw a liberal-conservative easy line, for nobody likes taxes, and when the public debt rises to forbidding heights, it is no longer possible from a political point of view to offer a convincing defense.

Unbalanced Budget

Time always works against the administration in power, and with the prospect that eight years will

Committee Will Study Why Money System Isn't Working

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Among New Dealers the new set of hearings before the temporary national economic committee, headed by Senator O'Mahoney, is rated as the most important of the decade. From the lips of some of the biggest business executives of the country, the joint committee will hear opinions as to why the capitalist system isn't working more satisfactorily.

Raymond Clapper is administrator of one of the most important questions of our time.

In these discussions, an effort will be made to diagnose the partial paralysis of capitalism, indicated in the vast stores of reserve capital now lying idle—savings of the country which are not usefully employed—and the reasons therefor. At the conclusion of the recent investigation of life insurance reserves, Chairman O'Mahoney pointed out that the total assets of the companies on Dec. 31 last were $27,650,000,000, equal to more than 65 per cent of the total assets of all national banks, and far in excess of the total of all savings in all state and national commercial banks.

Senator O'Mahoney went on to say that it implied no criticism of the insurance executives to say that the problem of how this tremendous capital reservoir is administered is one of the most important questions of our time. Life insurance companies, he said, "are taking a larger and larger proportion of new issues of securities, and while this is going on there is a steady demand upon congress from small business throughout the country for legislation to foster capital financing for small enterprises through government finance."

A problem "which demands the attention of the insurance and business executives just as much as it demands the attention of those of us in government who represent the public." Reservoirs of Savings Will Be Investigated. So in the present investigation, the way in which these huge sums are fed back into the economic system, or are not fed back, will be scrutinized—not only the insurance funds but other large reservoirs of savings held by investment trusts, large corporations and savings institutions. These funds are the fuel on which our system runs and the committee wishes to know more about how that fuel supply operates, and its accessibility. For the moment the interest is in obtaining information both as to the facts and as to what businessmen and other witnesses think might be done to increase the vitality of our system.

Nobody has been marked for crucifixion. The committee expects to obtain information of great importance but intends to make no martyr. Considerable effort will be made to get behind the term "confidence," which has served as an alibi word for current difficulties. Some New Dealers say capital is on a sidwown strike. Some businessmen imply the same thing when they intimate that they are going to sit tight and wait for a change of administration next year. But the capitalist system rests on the assumption that men will invest and work when they see a chance of profit.

Political Prejudice Might Affect System. If that is not true, then the system rests on a flimsy foundation of prejudice—and functions by whim, depending upon whether businessmen like the man in the White House.

Those conducting the present investigation, while recognizing that businessmen may be moved occasionally by that kind of prejudice, doubt if it is a factor of any real consequence. They believe that the difficulty lies deeper and is much more substantial. They do not believe that millions of dollars would lie idle if businessmen who control its investment saw opportunity to put it to work profitably.

At the height of the 1929 boom you had billions of dollars waiting around, swathed in confidence, ready and willing, all dressed up with no place to go. Big corporations put these idle surpluses into

Authorize Sale of $100,000 Worth of Emergency Bonds

Issued on Basis of Relief Expenditures for Years 1929-1936

Kaukauna — The common council last night sold $100,000 of emergency relief refunding bonds to T. E. Joiner and company of Chicago at an interest rate of 12 per cent. In addition the company will give the city a premium of $345, making the interest rate less than 1.65 per cent. The bonds are to be issued on the basis of relief expenditures for the years 1929 to 1936, inclusive.

A final resolution authorizing the issue and providing for the levying of taxes to pay off the interest and principal in annual installments of $100,000 was read by Alderman Segelink, chairman of the finance committee. After its approval, Mayor Lewis F. Nelson said the issue marked the completion of the city's refunding program, and that all possible issues were now out at low interest rates.

Two recommendations from the fire and police commission were read. One said the group had explained the motorcycle law to the council and recommended that it be amended to allow a new wheel, trading in the present one, and to use the motorcycle only for traffic, emergency calls and when the police car is not on hand. Alderman Luebke, chairman of the fire and police committee, moved that the recommendation be accepted. Alderman Mertens objected that when the police car was bought it was the council's intention to eliminate the motorcycle, saying that with both the expense would be higher than ever. Alderman Steidl supported Luebke, saying the motorcycle would just be used in the summer months, that it was more convenient for handling traffic and that sometimes the police car was not available. All but Mertens voted for the purchase of a new cycle.

Report on Fire Study
The commission reported it had studied the providing of fire protection to the towns of Kaukauna and Vandenbreen. If this protection were given, the state fire insurance rating bureau would probably insist on two more men being paid on duty to keep local fire insurance rates at the present level, the commission said. It was recommended that officials of the two towns be contacted to see if they would be willing to pay the wages of two more firemen, estimated at $1,500 each per year. The fire and police committee will report on the conference at the next meeting.

An agreement with the City Employees union, local No. 130, was approved, to last until May 1, 1940. Minor changes were made to conform to the consolidation of the two road districts which went into effect the first of this month.

A license to do sewer, drain and pipe laying work was granted to C. H. Keller. Alderman Segelink said the city's ordinance regulating such work has not always been lived up to, and that he was placing copies in the hands of firms doing the work.

Will Send Delegate
The council voted, 6 to 4, to have a member of the police department attend a safety conference at Sheboygan May 25. Objection on grounds of economy were Alderman Alger, Mertens, Nagel and Steidl. Alderman Segelink was given $5 for expense incurred on a trip to a Madison pension hearing last month.

The American Legion was voted $50 to aid in staging the annual Memorial day celebration. The Band Mothers thanked the aldermen for a recent donation of $100 to help purchase band uniforms. Alderman Alger reported that the state planning board would zone the city without cost, and only Alderman Fernald voted on a motion to have the work

Kaws Prepare for Conference Meet

5 Tracksters Entitled to Enter State Competition at Madison

Kaukauna — Heartened by taking third place in the Class B district meet at Neenah last week Coach Clifford H. Kemp tracksters are working out daily for the conference meet, slated for Saturday at Neenah. Five Kaws placed third or better last week, and are entitled to go to Madison for state competition.

Andy Meitner won the broad jump, leaping 19 feet and 9 inches to break the district record. Ralph Doering placed third in the low hurdles and Bob Dorus gained the same spot in the pole vault. Carl Giordana was second in the shot put and third in the discus, with Bill Alger second in the latter event.

The team which placed second last week, Kimberly, will not be in Saturday's meet, but two other strong squads will move in. Shawano, defending conference champions, and New London, with several competitors who have bettered conference and state records this year, will be on hand. These teams competed in the district trials at Wisconsin Rapids, Shawano edging out the Bulldogs for the title. Other teams in the meet will be Neenah, Menasha and West De Pere.

Miss Publitz Is Named Club Head

Kaukauna — Dorothy Publitz of Cecil was elected president and Frances Walker of Kaukauna named vice president as the Conservatory club of Outagamie Rural Normal school organized for next year. Other members elected were Margaret Tucker, Greenleaf, Bertha Hauertman, Kimberly, Judith V. Zealand, Appleton; Mildred Jenkins, Seymour; Arlene Radke, Montello, and Betty McCarthy, Lena.

Other guests at the dinner were Miss Edith McFee, Miss Hazel Thatcher, Miss Margaret Phillips and Miss Margaret Petersen, all faculty members. done. The council had originally planned to hire a private engineer at an estimated cost of $750. It was voted to transfer $7,184 from the inactive sewage disposal plant fund to the general fund. An application of John O'Maher for a city job was referred to the board of public works.

Origin of Holy Name Rallies Traced Back to Middle Ages

Kaukauna — When the crowd of Catholic men from 40 parishes of Green Bay diocese gathered in Kaukauna next Sunday for the district No. 2 Holy Name rally, they will be carrying on a Catholic tradition which has been practiced in America for the last 50 years, and that has its origin in Europe in the middle ages.

Rallies have been held in the east since the turn of the century, and in the Green Bay diocese for the last 25 years. Eleven diocesan gatherings were staged up to this year, usually at two-year intervals, and the Kaukauna meeting is the first of four district affairs being held this year. Another diocesan rally will take place in 1940.

Holy Name tradition dates back to 1274, when Pope Gregory X commissioned John of Vercelli, master general of the Dominican friars, to preach the love and respect for loyalty to the Holy Name of Jesus Christ. John of Vercelli has since been known as father of the Holy Name movement, and he was assisted in the spreading of movement by Thomas Aquinas, greatest philosopher and thinker of the period.

Reason Cited
The reason for the holding of Holy Name rallies is explained in a communication received from the Rev. Martin Vosbeck, diocesan spiritual director of the group, by General Chairman John Van De Loo.
"From the start Holy Name men have aimed to honor and reverence the Holy Name of God and of Jesus Christ," he explains. Their first object in this crusade is accomplished by organizing members in practices of piety, and in group action of prayer, worship and devotion. Their

Normal School Will Sponsor Pre-Prom Dance This Evening

The gym has been newly decorated in the school colors and a spring garden scene erected. On the committee are Faye Foote, Seymour, Irene Mortell, Seymour, and Rosemary Schmidt, route 3, Kaukauna.

Lowery, and to Rubin Kuehl and A. Wagnitz. Bridge awards went to Lottie McCarty and Mrs. Joseph Thelen, with W. Campbell winning the men's prize.

Board Asked to Submit Plan for Garbage Problem

Council Requests Body to Bring In Recommendation on June 6

Kaukauna — The question of adopting some method of garbage disposal was referred to the board of public works last night by the common council, with the board to bring in a recommendation June 6 service, and stated that some sort of their wards had asked for such a service, and stated that some sort of experiment, at least, should be undertaken this summer.

Other cities have provisions for collecting the garbage regularly. It was brought out, either charging the citizens individually or adding the cost to the general tax roll. The sewerage disposal plant could handle the garbage, said Alderman Alger, and a start in handling the problem must be made some time.

Petitions have been received by the board of public works for paving on Whitney, Seventh and Fifth streets. Alderman Steidl, chairman, reported. Steidl asked members of the council street committee to submit curb, gutter and sidewalk projects in their wards. The council approved a sewer to be laid on Cleveland avenue, connecting with Ninth street, using relief labor.

Alderman Mertens reported that men on relief had responded immediately to the job of cleaning up the north bank of the navigation canal, and that aldermen should check their wards to see if further projects were not available to keep the men busy. Relief workers thus pay for their allotments.

Alderman Segelink, finance committee, was authorized to go ahead with a project for erecting two posts, built of stone, 6 feet high, to mark the entrance of Riverside park with provisions for lights on top.

Free and Accepted Masons were granted the use of Riverside park on June 8. Knights of Columbus, Kaukauna council No. 1033, were granted the park for a picnic July 18.

Thomas Reardon, superintendent of public works, was formally given the title of city forester, a title created by the tree planting ordinance recently passed.

Baseball Game Will Start an Hour Later

Kaukauna — The Fox River Valley league game here Sunday between Kaukauna and Green Bay will begin at 3:30 instead of 2:30. It was announced this morning. The shift in time allows baseball fans a chance to view the Holy Name rally parade which starts at 2:30.

Pegler Says Probe of Race Horse Betting Good Idea

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York — The volume of betting on horse races in this country is so large—more than $1,000,000 a day—and the opportunities for larcenous practice and political corruption through bribery are so obvious that this rogue member of the financial community invites the official attention of the securities and exchange commission. The business is interstate, and while there is some doubt that a bookmaker's slip or his nod on the telephone constitutes a security transaction, the system, nevertheless, exists and is a very substantial condition, not a theory.

If race betting were a penny-ante vice, like the numbers racket, it could be ignored by the federal government, except in the zone of the income tax, and its policing left to the local cops. But race betting, as the treasury and department of justice have been learning, is a tremendous business, which roughly speaking, blankets the whole country, and the figures are such as to command the respectful attention of a government agency charged with the duty of protecting suckers.

In 16 of the 19 states in which racing was permitted by law the volume of betting through the mutual machines in 1938 was $276,335,000. If the turnover in the three others—New York, Louisiana and Maine—be conjectured and added to the known figure the total will be about a third of a billion.

In addition to this business an unknown but large amount was gambled on the races by habitual and occasional players through a chain of books. Some of this betting always finds its way to the tracks, however, where it is wagered through the machines for the purpose of regulating the odds against the interests of those who originally put up the money. Therefore, although we know that betting is an interstate business and that the mutual figures are not final, it is impossible to reckon the gross amount.

It is absolutely certain, however, that rigging is practiced openly whereby professional gamblers use their clients' money to diminish their winnings when they do win and that in Florida, one track pays a premium to such professionals in the form of a trade discount which is not allowed to ordinary bettors.

Track Operators Can't Lose on Average
Theoretically, the operators of a track are mere brokers, deducting from 4 to 10 per cent of every dollar wagered through their machines. They can't lose unless the volume of play falls so low that their commissions are unequal to their expenses, and, theoretically, they have no interest in the result of a race. That disinterest loses its fine, impartial purity, however, when race track stock falls into the ownership of professional bookmakers handling millions of public money away from the track.

And certainly no huge, interstate financial business based on public trust and confidence should be permitted to operate under the ownership, whether open or covert, of notorious racketeers and other underworld characters.

It might be argued that because wagers are not legally sound the SEC can have nothing to do with this enormous gambling traffic, which, in its interstate phase, is plainly illegal. Yet within the respective states gambling on the races at the tracks is legal and the work this week as an officer on the Pittsburgh Steel company's freighter "Malatofa."

Kaukauna Man Pays $11 Fine at Kimberly
Kimberly — Bernard Collins, Kaukauna, was fined $11 and costs in justice court Monday when he pleaded guilty of speeding and passing a car at an intersection on Kimberly avenue and Main street Sunday. Justice of Peace, Gustave Hanges fined Collins $10 for speeding and $1 for passing at an intersection. He was arrested by Chief of Police John Bernady.

claim represented in a winning mutual ticket is collectable, and the interstate traffic is so great that the SEC, in the line of its general purpose of protecting the public against swindles, should attempt either to police or suppress it.

Official Probe Would Arouse Local Interest
From a practical standpoint the SEC might simply acknowledge that the traffic does exist and stifle it by inquiry, for the slightest show of official curiosity would arouse local interest everywhere in corrupt arrangements whereby local authorities permit the bookmakers to operate against the law. Jersey City would be one promising starting point and Chicago another.

It does seem absurd on the face of matters that more or less legitimate business should be compelled to stand close inspection by the SEC when proposing to issue securities in comparatively small amounts, while an interstate gambling traffic of unknown but obviously vast volume is deemed to be beneath the law and, by the SEC's own standards, viciously corrupt.

The exposure of the influence of race track money on local and state governments and the correction of political impurity in these subdivisions may be beyond the duty of this federal agency. But if these results were achieved just incidentally through a general inquiry there would be no serious public resentment of this invasion of state's rights.

THE LAW AND THE JURY

Even in case-hardened Chicago a judge could not withhold his wrath at a jury that returned not guilty verdicts in respect to two young but professional hoodlums who had participated in and confessed to 25 house burglaries.

A Chicago newspaper, interested in the attempt to find a reason for such jury profligacy where even the defendants did not take the stand nor offer a defense, sought separate interviews with the jurors. The result should be an eye-opener even though it must be granted that Chicago jurors have a reputation as nearly the least capable in mental equipment in the country.

"I didn't know the boys had been involved in other burglaries or I'd still be there fighting for a guilty verdict," the answer of one of the jurors, expressed also the view of most of them. And here we have, too, a rather typical example of too-tight blinders on the jurors, chess-made rules of law that do not work out well in practice.

The prosecutor claims that under the Illinois law he cannot charge these criminals with their 25 burglaries in one indictment. He must, instead, have a grand jury return 25 separate indictments because they are all separate offenses committed, ordinarily, on separate days, and upon different pieces of property. So long as the defendants stay off the stand—their constitutional privilege—their past records and their other depredations may be, and are, concealed from the jurors, although the latter may be anxiously looking for evidence of a solid and definite nature to reveal the true character of the smirking young scoundrels on trial.

Little headway can be made in the fight on crime if the prosecutor is to be literally handcuffed instead of reserving those whistles for the men who should be convicted. As cases develop in the public prints the attitude of the legislature in failing to liberalize the rules of evidence is little short of scandalous. It indicates how very slowly we make progress in respect to those matters that cannot be said to have any particular political appeal. It is one of the real black marks on democracy's record.

At the present time jurors cannot be particularly blamed for assuming that the charge on trial is the only offense the accused has committed. After learning more about the devious pathways of the law in this respect jurors may come to assume more against the accused than even the facts would justify were those facts properly placed in evidence.

As a result of this sort of foolish doubts and posings we have acquittals where we should have convictions and we may eventually obtain convictions that could not be justified by the truth.

Simply permitting the prosecutor to include in one charge and at one trial all criminal offenses against an accused person which have not theretofore been placed before a jury would be a mighty step forward in the intelligent administration of justice.

LAFOLETTE WAR REFERENDUM

Senator Norris has turned with a disapproving eye and condemning voice upon the LaFollette proposal to amend the constitution of the United States to prevent our engaging in war upon foreign soil excepting in the Western Hemisphere, unless by referendum.

It is not that the senator is opposed to the doctrine of this submitted amendment. It is that the senator has more faith in the judgment of congress than in a vote of the people.

We doubt whether any possible attempt to chart America's future would receive from all classes of our citizenry the support accorded the LaFollette proposal. But whether to put it into the constitution or not—that is the question.

The chastening effect of war, our deplorable experience twenty years ago, all sharpened to the keenest edge by the careless action recently by our President, makes well-nigh conclusive the strongest sort of a majority imaginable in favor of the LaFollette theory as a national policy. And yet, would it be wise to put it in the constitution?

We do not question the wisdom of such a course for the same reason that Senator Norris questions it. We are more fearful that our great Ship of State may plunge along 50 or 100 years safely under that beneficent rule only to find it has suddenly become a snare against necessary immediate action due to conditions so altered down the generations that we cannot vision the changes.

The proposition is indubitably right, but before it is written into the constitution every possible hazard of so writing it must be trotted out and viewed most critically.

PROPAGANDA'S POWER

Windsor recognized propaganda in the constant use of the word "aggression" by the democracies against Germany and the employment of "encirclement" by Germany against those who oppose her.

For propaganda appears in a multitude of forms, all whipped up by the stinging lashes of hatred and partisanship. Windsor correctly reasoned that if he could not stop propaganda he at least might warn the world that it is in the very air we breathe.

Hitler's use of the word "encirclement," pounding it in with the deadly earnestness of the trip hammer, will create in the minds of many millions of Germans, who are at heart as good and decent as any people anywhere, the firm conviction that they are the victims of a vile and dastardly plot. On the other hand the Reich is day by day literally pictured as a slimy monster intent upon drinking the life blood of others every time its demand may be but a call for justice.

Even as Windsor was issuing his warning the cables from southwest Africa advised the Post-Crescent that "prompt action by the Union of South Africa had thwarted a plot to seize key positions in this former German colony," and that the police sent by the Union of South Africa "had arrived just in time to prevent fighting and bloodshed." This was followed by the information that London had advised the "discovery of a plot which had been unearthed by the British Intelligence Service in Europe."

So, without one direct word to that effect, the implication is cleverly broadcast that Germany is attempting to take its former colonies in Southwest Africa by force.

A short time before a similar charge was made in respect to the Argentine.

This does not indicate that such is not the German purpose. We do not know. But much of this news carries subtle features which, we think, an alert person may at least suspect.

The Germans, on the other hand, use such propaganda as they can. But they are notorious bunglers with it. They use a sledgehammer where a little tap will make more headway. They accuse of monstrous offenses when a hint of naughtiness would suffice. They mix in too much anger where bile and bitterness can never make headway. The German propaganda can only succeed in those countries where free speech and a free press are unknown.

But Windsor's principal warning had to do with the fact that propaganda aims to destroy by creating in the minds of a people an utterly fantastic and disordered conception of other peoples. Even when German propaganda seeks to picture America as a land of cheering mobs as negroes are lynched and the Reich as a nation where the peaceful populace enjoys itself in a shaded beer garden listening to Wagnerian opera, we still must not lose a correct mental balance by viewing the Reich through the eyes of English propaganda.

FLORIDA IN THE POLISH CORRIDOR

It is all the more disturbing when a man so accomplished in the matter of polish and appearances should sprain his ankle as Mr. Roosevelt did in the European adventure.

We expected our noble President to at least carry the New Deal past the Rhine. He could have been specific with a cure instead of inviting Herr Hitler to a conference table. A man with the distinguished engineering ability of Mr. Roosevelt should have observed that all the Polish Corridor needed was a canal and the only thing the Baltic demanded was a Yardstick Power Plant.

Had he only volunteered to build the Florida Ship Canal across the Polish Corridor connecting the two Prussias, or, in a moment of blinding brilliance substituted a tunnel instead, he could have transferred that junk up at dear old Quoddy over to the Baltic and let the tides there generate enough electricity to light the tunnel or drag the scows along the canal.

If Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini keep up this incessant oratorical exercise Mr. Roosevelt may some day take advantage of their situation and flatten them out with one of his real brain children.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

HER GRANDCHILD

For M. H. F.

"There's a cheeky little child on top of his head,
And his eyes are certain ones," she said,
"I never knew a child hold his hand
That grandchild of mine that a child is grand!"

"He's got a little light to be,
And a little bit of a glow," she said,
"Because of him I understand
That a grandchild means that a child is grand!"

"I can have a little boy or girl,
When the golden opening of a door
Brings a little boy—and a glad hour planned;
A grandchild means that a child is grand!"

When the day's over, the twilight spreads
Its beauty over our graying heads;
And when "He is ending upon the strand
A grandchild proves that a child is grand!"

Statistics production of cotton the past 20 years has not gone above 33.2 pounds a person per year or fallen below 19.5 pounds.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Perhaps nowhere in America is the singing of the risqué song more highly developed than in New York. It is definitely a talent, for a risqué ditty is one thing and a bawdy one is something else.

Most polished of singers of this type of song is Dwight Fiske who plays his own accompaniment and delivers his often shocking but always smart lyrics at the Savoy-Plaza. His "Mrs. Pettibone" is after many years still the outstanding example of Fiske at his risqué best.

Leo DeLys, another exponent of the same school, is not blessed more with smart lyrics as the others, and typifies more the British style, with songs of more depth and sly smuttness.

Women frequently attempt these songs, but few are successful. An exception is Consuelo Flowerton, a Social Register cantatrice now entertaining diners at Michael Larson's Swedish rendezvous, the Queen Mary. Like Fiske, she plays her own accompaniment, and like both Fiske and Eddie Davis she has been fortunate in obtaining smart material. Material is the greatest problem such singers face. Few lyrics writers have the knack of writing a song which is risqué and which yet can be sung before properly behaved sophisticates.

Miss Flowerton, a tallish, thin, dark-haired girl who has been singing in night clubs only five years, was convent-raised and learned both to sing and to play in those chaste surroundings. She has an aversion to being called a "Society Singer," a designation which has lost much of its novelty now that so many of society's pretty darlings are becoming night club vocalists. Consuelo learned show business in a Ziegfeld musical, and has appeared on the stage in "Smiling Thru," "Lysistrata" and "American Tragedy," and at one time was a favorite model for Howard Chandler Christy.

A secret in the delivery of the risqué song is that it always must be straight forward and never offensive. The lyrics themselves may be boldly suggestive, but the performer must be deft in presenting them. Miss Flowerton's explanation of how she happened to hit upon the piano monologue business is that it represents revolt against years of singing sugary and too-simple songs which fell to her in the early days of her stage career.

Naturally, there are complaints. New Yorkers are no less proper than people anywhere else, the only difference being that proper New Yorkers learn quickly to keep away from places where propriety might be brought to blush. Miss Flowerton says there have been occasions, especially when singing in hotel dining rooms, when she has lost jobs because guests complained.

MY YESTERDAY

Supped with Mr. Charles Rochester at his Hawaiian room, the occasion being the celebration of Ray Kinn's completion of a year's engagement there with this Hawaiian orchestra and Aloha Maids; and the thought came to me that few entertainers, no matter how capable, are able to hold the continuous interest of New York entertainment seekers for so long a time. The only others who come to mind at the moment are Nana Rodriguez's orchestra, which has played uninterruptedly at the Havana-Madrid for 18 months, and the dance team of Marilyn and Michael who are in their second year at the Rainbow Grill.

Many entertainers and bands return year after year to the same places, but do not remain continuously. Guy Lombardo, for instance, has been appearing at the Roosevelt Grill for many seasons. Eddy Duchin hasn't missed a season in the last ten years at the Savoy-Plaza, and Emil Cole man is heard for several months of each year at the Waldorf-Astoria's Sert Room.

Earlier last evening chatted in the Roosevelt Lounge with Max Smith, editor of News-Week, with whom I once labored side by side; and we exchanged recollections of experiences in Toronto, Ont., and of Rue Vallee, Graham McNamee and George Jessel.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, May 15, 1929

At least 90 lives were known to have been lost and scores of persons injured in the deadly explosion and fire at Cleveland Clinic hospital that day.

The population at the Alicia park zoo was to be augmented in the near future by a bear, Alderman Harvey Priebe, chairman of the council committee on building and grounds, reported. The zoo already had one bear and Charles Hopfensperger had promised to get another one for the city, the alderman said. Other animals at the zoo included a deer, a monkey, pheasants, rabbits and squirrels.

Chet De Noble, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Noble, 1930 S. Oneida street, was in a critical condition at St. Elizabeth hospital as the result of an automobile accident on Highway 156 about a quarter-mile east of Nichols at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, May 20, 1914

Howard Watson, Kaukauna, a former member of the Lawrence Dramatic club, was making good with a stock company at Los Angeles. Articles of incorporation had been filed at the register of deeds office by the Cicero Farmers Dairy company with a capital stock of $3,000. The incorporators were Dell Carter, Frank Lucdike, Edward Siebert, Jacob Heinrich and Crist Collins, all of Seymour.

M. L. McCormick had sold his residence on the corner of Cherry and Seventh streets to Mr. McAllister of Oshkosh. He had purchased a lot on Seventh street from James O'Leary where he was to erect another home.

Opinions of Others

DEPOSITS NOT WANTED

A customer in a New York bank was recently asked to withdraw a deposit of 16 million dollars. The bank found the deposit a burden. A profitable use for the money could not be found, expenses being what they are. The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation insures deposits of any individual depositor up to a maximum of $5,000. Although the protection to any depositor is limited to $5,000, the bank's premium for insurance is figured on its total deposits. That meant that for protection to $5,000 of the 16 million dollar deposit the bank paid a premium of $13,333 per year.

Against the deposit of 16 million dollars the bank had to have a credit with the reserve bank equal to 25 per cent of the amount. That would leave $12,360,000 which might be invested in United States treasury bills, on which an average return of 1-20 of 1 per cent might have been realized in 1938. Thus the bank could have realized $5,180 on 16 million dollars. The yield would not have been half enough to pay the FDIC premium the depositor was asked to take the money elsewhere.

The depositor happens to have been the United States treasury, but this may be the experience of any large depositor whose funds may be drawn down at any time. Indeed, it is reported that a commercial depositor of another bank which increased its balance from 5 to 10 million dollars was told that the additional deposit was not wanted. If easy money persists, banks which used to pay customers for maintaining balances will be obliged to charge them for warehousing their cash.—The Chicago Tribune.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The Twentieth Century has a jolly little marching band "World Turned Upside Down" which it has carried since the Revolution—any war, in a sense that is what has happened to our relations with the Caribbean countries in recent years. They have turned upside down.

The Caribbean nations, those little Central American and offshore countries generally referred to as the Banana Belt, occupy a special status with relation to the United States as was shown so well by the visit here of President Somoza of Nicaragua.

When he hove into town who should be on hand to greet him but President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and the whole upper bracket of the Government. Troops lined two miles of Pennsylvania avenue from the Union Station plaza to the White House. That was a lot of troops, even when you spread them out at arms length, as they were this time. If you line Pennsylvania with soldiers, there aren't many left for national defense.

No More Rough Stuff
Because of the Panama Canal, the United States simply must keep the Caribbean belt contented, or at least quiet. Time was when it was done by sending troops down among them. But not any more. For a score of years or more the U. S. has been winning the Latin Americans over to a sort of hemispherical cooperative. It is a big departure from old time.

Why there was a time right in Nicaragua when the United States didn't like the president. His name was Zelaya. He was pro-British and threw all the trade concessions to British business interests. We wanted some of them. And how did we get them? When the inevitable revolution of those days started, we threw our influence behind it—and out went Zelaya.

That happened under President Taft, but it wasn't exclusively a Republican trick. President Wilson did it with Huerta in Mexico, and for the same reasons basically. One reason was that he was throwing all the oil concessions to the British.

Diplomacy and business went along together. Disturbances in the Banana Belt always invited foreign interference, and because of the need of keeping the Panama Canal far from the reach of alien hands the United States had to preserve stable government. Peace also was necessary for American business interests. Diplomatic pressure and even troops were used in Nicaragua, Haiti and San Domingo to keep the peace and protect business. In return, U. S. banks cooperated by making loans which helped to buy out foreign investors and make diplomacy easier. It was called "dollar diplomacy."

A Different Pressure
Look at the arrangement now. Diplomatic pressure is on a more elevated plane. Within reason, investors who put their money in the Caribbean must take their own risks. Mexico is giving trouble now, but there is no thought of sending troops down there, even though the Government has seized valuable American investments.

And is our Government dependent on U. S. banks for sweetening the necessary arrangements there? Not any more. The U. S. Government, through the export-Import Bank, makes loans direct. One has been made to Brazil already and President Somoza expects—and probably will get—one for his own country. As for the others, the line forms on the left.

By Bob Burns

I don't reckon there's anything in this wide world as down-right toothsome and pleasin' to the palate as the food your mother used to make. Sometimes I just sit here and sorta let my mind go back to them delicious hot biscuits, brown gravy, fried gossins an' hominy... and my mouth starts to waterin' like a busted fire hydrant.

But honest, it's sure changed a lot since I was a boy. Last night I was ridin' home on the street-car, and I heard one big business woman say to another one, "I must hurry home to dinner, or I'd have worked later at the office. There's nothing like a good home-cooked dinner, is there?"

The second lady said, "No, but I'm beginnin' to suspect my husband of spendin' his afternoons at the movies. I'm positive that pudgin' last night came from the delicatessen!"

Lunch Basket Stolen:

It's Safe Deposit Box

Bellevue, O.—Every day for 50 years Sam Spayd, blacksmith, carried a lunch basket to his shop two doors from the city police station. He was a familiar sight to police.

But it was not until Spayd reported the theft of the container that he informed police that it did not contain lunch but a safety deposit for his account books, securities and $500 in cash.

Police were informed that the lunch basket was taken from a special hiding place near the smithy's anvil.

THE GENTLE RAIN OF CHECKS

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Offhand many citizens might be tempted to say that members of the legislature talk too much, and do too little. Indeed, poking fun at legislative bodies and particularly state legislators, is a noisy custom, almost a sanctified American right.

In the state-house just now, however, and especially in the state assembly, there is some grumbling that debate isn't enough. New and relatively obscure members complain that they are being encouraged, nay commanded, to hide their lights under a bushel. Anyone who understands the politician's psychology will understand why that inspires some resentment.

Discipline
There is a remarkable degree of discipline in the lower house this session, something which the floor-leaders of the upper chamber privately envy. Only the leaders talk on most questions. The majority party members who have not been picked for leadership positions are expected to vote, regular, without time-killing arguments.

How long that discipline will continue is a question about which there is some gossip. In fact there is considerable chafing under the collars of some members, those who know that at home they are figures of some influence and reputation. One of them, a county board chairman at home, was giving voice to his displeasure in tones loud enough for the majority bosses to hear the other day.

One result of this policy has been rapid action on assembly bills thus far, until today the lower house has far outdistanced the senate in its calendars.

Income Tax
Since the Heil administration seems likely to decide on income tax revision as a revenue-producing measure, a little of recent income tax history may be appropriate.

In 1932 Gov. LaFollette was forced to call a special session of the legislature to consider the relief problem, then at its worst. He had to raise—or so he concluded—several millions for direct relief. The only means the legislature found available was an income surtax. However, taxpayers had filed their returns in March, so they were all sent a special tax bill sometime in July.

The reaction was immediate, and, fearful from the Progressive point of view. What happened? LaFollette went out to campaign for reelection a few months later, and Al Schmedeman was elected.

Charles Rosa, one of the veterans of the political wars of Wisconsin, is back in the capital city, and with him comes gossip that he is looking over the prospects for a candidacy for governor next year.

Rosa has an interesting political background. Originally one of the leading LaFollette chieftains in southern Wisconsin (he is a native of Beloit where he practiced law earlier), he broke with the LaFollette faction early in the twenties, after he had been appointed to the tax commission by Gov. Blaine. Resigning after a long and bitter quarrel with the Blaine people, he ran against Young Bob LaFollette for senator. He was also supporting Fred Zimmerman, whom the Progressives oppose with a peculiar bitterness because he was once one of their own. Zimmerman won, and Rosa lost. Zimmerman reappointed him to the tax commission as a Stalwart. Last year he went to Michigan as a tax expert at the call of Democratic Frank Murphy; this year he was promptly deposed by the Republican Fitzgerald forces.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

2 YEARS FOR EVERY TOOTH

Somewhere in my files, no doubt, is the copy of an item or two published in this column within the past five years telling of the conclusion reached by statisticians, economists or maybe just doctors or hygienists, that every inch in birth over the normal for age and height after thirty means one year, or is it two years? deducted from one's life expectancy.

Now for Pete's sake if your birth rate is high don't blame me for reminding you that your life line shrinks as your equator expands. If you still have enough interest in health, vite and longevity to read stuff like this you will not resent a warning given before it is too late to heed it. Anyway, there it is. Personally I believe it is as true as any principle of health or hygiene can be. Moreover, I find it a comforting thought or a reassurance that one can stretch one's life expectancy beyond the average by simply practicing reasonable regulation of diet and doing a few rather enjoyable exercises every day.

Somehow I rate life highly, perhaps I appraise health too highly, too, but not unless all the maxims and sayings of poets and philosophers are hokey.

People are rarely even casually interested in building or maintaining health until they are no longer able to deceive themselves that their health is all right. In Yankeeland (1) few healthy laymen really believe it is good sense or good economy to have a periodic voluntary health examination by a physician, and consequently (2) few physicians are qualified by training and experience to render such service.

Conservation of the teeth is another key to vite, in my judgment. Perhaps due largely to bias in popular education (commercial interest) but also in part to the confusingly indefinite attitude of the dental profession, a great many people have a vague notion that "a clean tooth never decays" and hence one best conserves the teeth by keeping them clean.

Newer knowledges of nutrition and plain common sense or general observation have compelled us to recognize these facts:

First, general nutrition determines the condition of the teeth.

Second, only by regular examination and treatment by the dentist can one avoid dental caries or cavity formation and its consequences.

Third, for every tooth lost and not immediately replaced by a functionally satisfactory denture, one must deduct two years from one's life expectancy.

Happiest Time of Woman's Life Varies With Individual

BY DOROTHY DIX

A correspondent asks: When is the happiest time of a woman's life? That is a question that it is impossible to answer definitely because it varies with each individual case. Perhaps none of us know the answer until the end comes and we look back over the years and assess what they brought us and realize that often when we were happiest we did not even know it.

DOROTHY DIX

According to tradition, the happiest time of a woman's life is between her fifteenth and her twenty-fifth birthday. Poets have sung and novelists gone into raptures over the delights of gay, carefree girlhood. But, in reality, it is a period of storm and stress and fears that most women look back upon with horror.

For the young girl is not a blithesome being sailing joyously through the ether on glowing clouds of pink chiffon and feasting on strawberry ice cream. She is a terrified little adventuress starting out on a frozen sea to make her way in a world of which she knows as little as she does about the heart of darkest Africa.

When we are old we laugh at the things over which we shed barrels of tears when we were girls, but it was a world-shaking tragedy then not to have a new dress for a party, and if it rained so we couldn't go to a picnic we felt that we might just as well lie down and die and be out of a world that was filled with such blasting disappointments.

Every young girl's life is filled with agonizing anxieties about whether she will be popular with the boys; whether she will have plenty of cut-ins on her dances; whether she will be dated for this or that; whether some pimply-faced lad will fall for her or not; whether she will be married. And if, somehow, she lacks that mysterious quality that attracts men, if she has to sit at home at night and read an improving book while all the other girls are out having good times; if she is a wallflower at parties and the hostess has to shanghai partners to dance with her, she suffers an almost unendurable martyrdom of humiliation and feels herself disgraced.

No, youth is not the happiest time of life for a girl because she has not had time enough in which to find out that so few things are important enough to worry about, and to acquire a philosophy that will enable her to meet the trials of life with a shrug and a smile.

Brides are also traditionally happy and the honeymoon is supposed to be a time of bliss for them, but virtually every woman knows that the first year of marriage is the hardest, and that during it she has put on her hat a dozen times and started back to Mother. She has found out that no matter how much she loves her husband that living with him takes a "bit of doing," as the English say. The shock of finding out that the hero of her girlish dreams is just a plain male creature, who has temper and nerves and tantrums, gives her a jolt from which she never fully recovers.

Then come the busy years in which woman is working, shouldering her share of the world. When the babies come and she is tied down to perambulators and kindergartens and school girls and boys. Wrestling with adolescents who are bound and determined to do everything they shouldn't do, and she is too rushed to give even a thought to her own emotional life.

At the time she never dreams that that is the happiest time of her life, but to nine women out of ten it is. For after the children are grown and gone about the business of life for themselves; when the tumult and the shouting have died in the home and it is left empty and lonely, most women fall into a sort of melancholia. They have surrendered their own lives into their children's and when they are gone, nothing is left.

The one time of life that women dread most is age. They regard it as an enemy against which they fight with all their might and main. But to those who accept it as a friend it brings the peace that passes all understanding and joys that often make it the best part of their lives.

For age settles all of woman's problems and stills her anxieties. She has no longer to try to make herself attractive to men, because "Trick 1: West opened the spade; East played the four; and South ducked.

"Trick 2: South led diamond ace; all followed suit.
"Trick 3: South led diamond king, East discarded heart queen.
"Trick 4: South led diamond queen; West discarded spade ten; East, club nine.
"Trick 5: South led diamond jack; West discarded club three; East, club deuce.
"Trick 6: South led diamond nine; West discarded spade three; East, spade eight.
"Trick 7: South led heart queen; West's ace won; East played heart four.

"In view of South being marked with nine diamonds and probably three clubs and a singleton heart, should West lead a club, as partner asked him to do, or should he lead spade or heart in an endeavor to force declarer to play to East's club holding?"
R. O. L. Ohio.

I shall answer this question first, as follows: Since South's holding had been absolutely revealed as nine diamonds and no spades, and since it was 1,000 to 1 that East had a five-card heart suit for his bid at the four level, declarer could hold no more than one heart and therefore must have three clubs. Under the circumstances there was no conceivable reason for West to observe East's silly club signal.

West should have laid down the spade ace, or should have existed with his remaining heart, and East would have had to get two club tricks. This, of course, does not excuse East for having discarded so badly. On the third lead of diamonds he could tell as well as West that declarer had started with a nine-card diamond suit. It was bad enough for East to have called for a club lead by playing the nine spot, but that he should have completed the echo, at the expense of blanking his A-Q of clubs for the purpose of keeping worthless low hearts, is beyond explanation. Note that it would not have been fatal for West to have led a club at the eighth trick, except for the fact that East was reduced to two clubs—the ace and queen. If he had held three, the A-Q-2, a club lead would have cost nothing; that is, the ace would win and East could exit by playing the heart king or a spade. Declarer still would lose to the club queen and so would be defeated.

As for the bidding, a four spade overcall, vulnerable, on West's holding would have been overly aggressive but the very height of logic if compared with East's actual reopening bid of four hearts. This latter was simply awful!

My Neighbor Says—

Lettuce is a cool-season crop that must grow fast in order to be crisp and fresh when ready for the table. Sow seed as early as possible in rich soil, for there is no better crop than the first to be harvested in the spring.

An ice made of tomato juice is a tasty addition to a meal at which roast beef or fowl is served. Other uses for summer include lime, mint, apricot, lemon, pineapple and lemon.

Saving soap does not save woollens. When laundering woollens be sure to use plenty of suds. It minimizes the rubbing necessary and, therefore, preserves the garment longer.

A let-down shelf in the cabinet in the small room will prove useful for a writing, dressing or work table. When it has been used it may be pushed back into place.

Try making edible place cards for children. A simple one may be made by cutting out cards made of cake 1 by 2 inches in size. Bake them carefully and then write the name of each guest on his card with thin icing squeezed through a pastry tube.

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY

If vain males think the girls are out after their money or paychecks they had better sit up and take notice! For a recent survey, made through this column, clearly indicates that the average American girl rates good grooming and nice manners far above money.

Here is one of three best letters and many an American boy should clip it and paste it on his mirror! It came from Minneapolis, Minnesota, and was signed—but a postscript restrains me from printing the girl's name.

"I like a man: —who is tender. I think tenderness is the most endearing quality a man can possess.
—who is courteous and considerate. My ideal man would always treat me with as much courtesy as if he were meeting me for the first time.

—who is loyal. I want my fiancé or husband to defend me, if necessary, even though he thinks I might be wrong.
—who is dependable. One who will call me when he says he will and not the next week or the next month.

—who is honest and candid.
—who can make it seem like an adventure to sit on a stool at a lunch counter and eat a hamburger with him.

—who notices what I wear and compliments my efforts to be a credit to him when we step out.
—who is faultlessly groomed. He may have only two suits but those two should be shined. His linen should be immaculate and he should be freshly shaved when he calls for me. His fingernails clean!

—who is interested in my problems and will listen to them sometimes. Once in a while I want to talk about myself, my hopes, my fears and my ambitions. I don't always want to listen to his!

—who is liked by other men. One who is a square-shooter."

And Now for Dislikes.
"I dislike a man:
—who calls me and says: 'What are you doing tonight?' This puts a girl out on a limb. She must commit herself without knowing what she is letting herself in for.
—who tries to get credit for doing nothing. One who says: 'I almost called you last night," or "I thought of driving you to work the morning it was twenty below zero!" That makes me see red!

—who thinks of nothing but candy for a girl. I would love a bunch of violets for my coat, a new book, a knick-knack for my charm shelf.

—who is always vague about what we are going to do when we step out. Not knowing whether to dress for a hockey game or for a dinner dance is distressing.

—who thinks I am out to trap him if I make a special effort to be friendly or interested!

—who thinks he can win my favor by devoting himself to another girl. I never work.

—who says he would give his life for me, but who passes up all opportunities to do small favors. I really don't want him to die for me, but he could drive me to the dressmaker!

—who dines in solitary splendor at one of our better places, but when he wants to see me thinks it would be fun to watch me stir up a welch-rarebit!

Postscript: "If this letter should happen to be chosen please don't use my name—I'm afraid I wouldn't have any more ideas if you did!"

Writer's postscript: "You Minneapolis boys had better turn over to a new leaf!"

Good Taste Today

SCHOOLGIRL HOSTESSES
Dear Mrs. Post: My young daughter has asked me to let her club give a tea here at our house for them to entertain all the mothers of the members. I am delighted but wondered, since the party is in my house, whether I should receive the other mothers. I don't want to enter into the arrangements more than necessary because I think it is grand experience for these young girls to have full charge; on the other hand I don't want any of the other mothers to feel me rudely.

Answer: Your daughter should receive in this case, perhaps with one or two of the other girls who are on the committee of arrangements. You would simply walk among the guests and make yourself agreeable, talking to the mothers and urging timid ones to go to the tea table, and doing whatever else you can to assist the girls but without yourself assuming the place of hostess.

A Bachelor Dinner
Dear Mrs. Post: I am the groom-to-be's married sister and am in the best position to give a bachelor dinner for my brother, which I would like to do. As hostess, however, am I supposed to be present at this dinner in my own house, or not? It doesn't seem quite right for me to give him a party and not at least welcome the guests. My husband is a member of the wedding party.

Answer: It is an unbreakable rule that a bachelor dinner no woman should ever be present—not even for a moment. But it would be entirely proper that you provide the dinner for your brother and that your husband act as host. Your brother himself tells his ushers and the other friends he wants to include that the bachelor dinner is being given at his brother-in-law's house, because it would be very strange to have it announced that a man's dinner is being given by his sister.

A Trained Nurse's Signature
Dear Mrs. Post: I am a trained nurse and have occasion sometimes to write thank you notes for my patients. I have always just signed such a note Mary G. Blank. My last patient I had thought I should have added R. N. to my signature. I have asked other nurses since then what they do in such cases and find that some do and others do not. Will you please print what you think so the others as well as I can read it.

Answer: Since your letters probably do not explain who you are, the initials at the end of your name would not only be proper but they would certainly be helpful in establishing your identity. Realizing who you are, any one who is especially concerned about your patient would find comfort in being able to make future inquiries to you direct.

Emil Post regrets she cannot answer readers' letters personally but she will be glad to send you her leaflet, "The Rules of Importance," if with your request you will enclose a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope. ## Early Training in Good Sportsmanship Is Advised

BY ANGELO PATRI

John Thomas is a bright child. Right from the start this was evident and, of course, his father and mother were not displeased about that. He learned everything quickly, and perhaps father and mother praised him highly for every accomplishment so that he felt he must be right as often as possible. I think maybe he formed that notion early and went to believing that winning and being first meant all the difference in life to him. If he did not win, he failed, and failure was an awful thing because it meant no applause.

By and by John Thomas went to school, a public school, where every little girl and girl stood on their own, and each did his and her best to outshine the other fellow. That is the way of little children, and it is a healthy enough way if grown-ups do not get into the battle. Children give and take, win and lose, as a matter of course, if no adult thought enters into the matter. But you see, that thought had already been set in John Thomas. He must win or father and mother would wonder why he had not been his usual bright self.

Sometimes John Thomas did not get a hundred per cent on his paper. He got ninety-five. Down went his head on his arms and down came the tears. The children looked at him in wonder, tinged with pity, and his teacher said, "Why John Thomas, it is no disgrace to get ninety-five. You can't be a hundred per cent all the time." But there was no comfort for John Thomas that day. He did not win, so he had failed. No in-between for him.

It was bad enough in the classroom, but when he got to the playground, and entered a contest, and lost, it was tragic for him. He got in second. The teacher announced, "Rachel Bondy, first, John Thomas, second." For an instant John Thomas could not believe this could happen to him. Beaten. And the cheers for someone else. Impossible! He dissolved into tears, floods of tears, and could not stop them no matter how hard he tried.

The children, hard young hearts that they are, turned their backs on him as "bad sport," and the teacher said, "Come now, John Thomas, you must not let them see you cry because you lost. That isn't the way boys do. Shake hands with Rachel and tell her you're glad she won."

Rachel quickly thrust out her hand, but John Thomas couldn't see for the tears, and he was led off the grounds to be sent home to his mother.

No child enjoys losing a race, but as only one child can win they must all learn to lose cheerfully, and to determine to try again. I don't believe in doing away with games that call for contests of mind and body, speed and skill and accuracy. Life is one long contest and school, if it is for one idea more than any other in educating children, stands for preparing mind and body for that contest. Train the loser, and may the best man win.

The loser has to be taught the etiquette of his position. Nobody believes for a moment that the loser is really glad the other man won, but we believe in bowing to the winner, in congratulating him, while reserving the right to determine to beat him next time if it takes a leg.

Training in good sportsmanship begins, as all other forms of training should begin, early, with the first trial and the first failure. Smile and try again.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and teachers on the subject of the development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

THE CHARACTERS
Ascy Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth.
Jane, ward of the murdered woman.

Yesterday, Eloise is found dead at the foot of the cellar steps. Ascy thinks she was pushed.

Chapter 41
"Stop, Look, Grab"
Hamilton wandered around, peering at the old book case whose shelves were filled with preserves and "put-up" jars of vegetables and fruit. He even removed the lid from the old stone crock, and after sniffing at its contents, hastily replaced it. The odor of sauerkraut filled the cellar.

"Let's get back upstairs," Lane said. "I don't see anything here that's doing us any good. If she was killed, she was killed, and we might as well get to the Warren girl and get it over with."

"What?" Ascy asked as they climbed back to the kitchen. "What's that?"

"Jane Warren. She came in the house after Eloise did. I saw her. She was here a couple of minutes. I saw her come and I saw her go."

"You didn't tell us about that." "You didn't," Lane said tartly. "I give me any chance to. Don't you want to amend your ideas, and say she fell or tripped, instead of was pushed?"

"Ascy shook his head. "Nope. Doc. how did Jane fall? when you told her Eloise was sick?"

"She said Eloise had eaten any quantity of lobster salad and peach shortcake with whipped cream for lunch," Cummings replied, "and had been taking soda mints by the pound ever since. I should say that Jane was philosophical, and more or less unmoved about it all. Eloise's oddness and her eccentricities are hardly a closed book to anyone who ever slept under the same roof with her, you know."

"Didn't seem to see anything strange about your comin', or your wife's comin'?"

"She said it was thoughtful, and that she couldn't possibly have managed the tourists alone."

"Brazening it out," Lane said. "Remember what she threatened. Ascy! One word from Eloise about Mike Slade."

"You're so obvious, Lane," Cummings began to put things back into his bag. "I knew you'd say that. I've been waiting for you to say it. Tell me, what sort of things do you eat, usually?"

"I eat what I can get," Lane was annoyed. "What do you think?"

"Especially, what?"

"Oh, meat and fish and vegetables."

"Obvious foods," Cummings said cheerfully. "See how it works out, Ascy? Eloise eats futile things— you get the idea."

"You tell me," Ascy said, "what the feller we want feeds on, and I'll pay your grocery bills for a year. Hamilton, bring Jane in, will you? I've tried to get a word from her, but she won't come out. The tourists seem to have let up."

He led Jane into the dining room and motioned her to a seat from which she could not possibly see the blanket-covered figure on the living room couch.

The Home Gardener

By Edwin H. Perkins

Every one with a water garden or barrel sunk into the ground either grows or wants to grow the lotuses. Nelumbiums, as they are called in some catalogs, hurl their challenge to every gardener. They are as capricious and uncertain, at times, as the hands of the expert. No one has ever explained that satisfactorily. When they succeed they reward all the attention given to them and, unless restrained in a container, will walk away with every bit of food intended for neighbors.

While they can be grown from seeds it is general practice to use the potted plants sent out by nurserymen dealing in aquatics. These can be planted in shallow water until midsummer after which time failure is almost certain to follow the transplanting.

Lotuses should be planted in large boxes placed in shallow parts of a pool. The boxes should contain the very richest soil and the soil must be present in quantity. Three to four bushels of stiff clay mixed with a bushel of manure is just enough for a single plant. Several roots can use a truckload of such a mixture.

Beautiful blooms have developed from plants growing in a barrel sunk into the soil up to its top rim. Soil was filled in to within six inches from the top which seems to be about the right amount of water needed above the root stock. Deeper water is too chilly for lotuses.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

This clergyman's indictment of the Jews is not a racial matter, for 51 per cent of Americans are what I term "cultural parasites," enjoying the privileges of a Christian land without attempting to repay society for those benefits, or to guarantee the continuation of those lofty moral principles which alone prevent a return to Nero's pagan age.

CASE N-139: William O., aged 35, is a Lutheran clergyman.

"The most critical Jewish problem today," he began, "is not the lamentable persecutions which they suffer in Europe, but their own racial egotism and apathy regarding Christianity."

"Throughout the centuries, for example, they have refused to blend people paid tribute where tribute is due, and if they wish to invoke the Christian rights of minorities and the generosity only inculcated by Christian doctrines, they better get behind the teaching of Christian principles before paganism completely takes us back to the inhumanity of Nero."

DIAGNOSIS:
This inertia regarding the moral education of our current generation is not a racial matter, however, since 51 per cent of Americans belong to no church at all.

The oppressed minorities don't think of appealing to Japan for aid, because Japan, though as highly civilized as America, is not motivated by the Christian doctrine of the Golden Rule.

Civilization and unselfishness are not synonymous. Too many Americans of minority groups think that their enjoyment of the rights of the majority, such as freedom from unwarranted search and seizure, the liberty of speech and freedom of the press—are simply products of modern civilization. They distinctly are not.

Only the Golden Rule type of education teaches the strong to respect the weak, or makes a majority give equal privileges and opportunities to a minority.

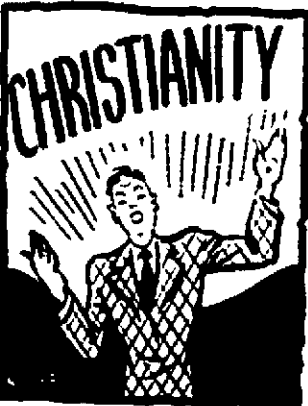

Cultural Parasites
People who wish to enjoy the privileges and cultural benefits which are directly the benefits of a Christian age, but refuse to live even their little fingers in repayment of that debt to Christianity, are what I term "cultural parasites."

Abraham Lincoln's wish was to leave a rose where a thistle grew before. In short, he believed firmly that a man should turn back to society more than he obtained therefrom.

People who refuse to exercise the right of suffrage are therefore deserting the sacred memories of those who died to guarantee us this unique privilege. They are renegades to the martyrs of the past.

People who enjoy the protection of the police, the fire departments, and the luxury of paved streets and sidewalks, free public schooling and pure water, are cheap crooks if they deliberately try to avoid paying a reasonable tax for such benefits.

If a man wishes to be a self-respecting citizen of his age and generation, then he must do his utmost to repay society for those valuable heritages which he has received from previous generations.

CHRISTIANITY

with other races. Now they are simply encountering this same foolish racial egotism on the part of Hitler, and of course they dislike it.

"The Jews have also failed to aid Christianity in its education of succeeding generations regarding the Golden Rule and the unselfishness which is a unique attribute of Christianity."

"Yet they instantly want to invoke the privileges and generosity of Christian society at the present time. Why, the Hitler persecution of the Jews wouldn't have rated a headline in any newspaper if it hadn't been for the laborious work of the Christian church in making society somewhat unselfish."

"Modern Jews don't even know the meaning of the word persecution. Just think back to the arbitrary slaughter of male babies at the birth of Moses. Or of Herod's mass murder of infants at the time of Christ's birth!"

"What has changed society during the interval? Simply the Golden Rule and the altruism of the Christian religion. It is high time that socking her the other night. And just as you thought how well she really was, she'd tip the ink bottle over your knees, or something, and be more cluttery than ever. And Mary wasn't cluttery, and it was hard for her."

"Tell me about those paths to the ice house," Asey said.

"It Drove Me Crazy"

"I don't know anything about them," Jane told him. "I was scared to death to set foot off the place here, if you want to know. I—I can't explain, but there always seemed to be something so evil about those swamps, and the mists, and everything. It's a queer place."

"You got that gun license 'cause you was scared?"

Jane nodded. "Mike said it was foolish and there was nothing to be afraid of, and then he realized how I felt, and he said he'd get me a gun, and it would make me feel better, even if I couldn't use it so well." She sighed. "After I learned more about shooting, he was going to get me a gun—"

"Where'd you meet Mike, Jane, down by the ice house?"

"Truly, Asey, I never went near the place but once. I'm scared around here. Lake Kay, I'm a city person. The country quiet and noises simply terrify me. I usually met Mike at the beach. He couldn't come here because Eloise raised such a rumpus. It was all open enough."

"I wonder," Asey said, "who did go down there by the pond from this house?"

"I don't know, but it always seemed to me I heard droves of people around. Mary laughed at me and said it was my imagination, but she wouldn't stay here alone at night! There was a noise that drove me crazy—a sort of laugh. It was the most uncanny thing, but I found out what it was."

"You found out—what?"

"A whistle sort of arrangement, only it looks more like an ocarina than a whistle. I found it out by the barn, weeks ago. I decided what I'd been hearing was local boys and girls, parking around—those back roads are simply stopped up with cars, sometimes. I've heard the sound since, but it hasn't bothered me so much now that I know what it was. I thought at first it was an escaped lunatic. It sounded that way. Probably some kids signaling."

"Haven't got the thing now?"

Says Nazi's Trade Methods Lowering Living Standard

Tactics "Obviously Un-economic," Cummings Tells Rotary Club

Nazi Germany's determination to acquire foreign money and much needed materials by making attractive offers to tourists and countries which are prospective customers of her manufactured goods is steadily forcing down her standard of living, Dr. Richard O. Cummings, assistant professor of history at Lawrence college, told members of the Appleton Rotary club yesterday noon in the Conway hotel.

"Germany wants you (the tourist's) dollar so much she'll give you twice as much as she would her own people and she also gives countries with whom she is trading more for their raw materials," Cummings said. "This is obviously un-economic and it is being paid for by the sweat of the German worker."

The crux in the German situation, Cummings said, is how long that country can employ these tactics and how long her people can endure them.

The Nazi regime attempted at first to make the country self-sufficient, but found it impossible. "A country that lacks basic resources like iron, petroleum, and adequate arable land besides such things as sugar, coffee, and rubber cannot hope to be self-sufficient," the professor said.

"Germany has the labor and she has turned it to making fine manufactured goods such as cameras, telescopes, and spectacles." The market for these products ultimately will be filled, the speaker pointed out.

Cummings said he believed it would be "more logical for United States to maintain a quiet stand" in the present European situation.

"United States is in a position to accept leadership in world affairs—if we can stay out of Europe's quarrels, we will be the gainers," he said.

Jaces Would Use Erb Park; Agree To Restrictions

Board Will Meet Tonight To Iron Out Differences on Picnic

The board of directors of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce last night voted to use Erb park, if the park board grants permission, for the Fourth of July celebration and to stay within the restrictions set up by the board, according to H. L. Davis Jr., president of the Jaces.

The park board will meet at 7:30 tonight at the state bank building to consider the Jaces new proposal and the organization's refusal of Telulah park for the annual picnic.

The board last summer adopted a resolution effective Jan. 1, 1939, prohibiting the sale of beer and the use of parks for commercial enterprises, such as the renting of concessions at picnics to outside interests.

Voters in the spring election voted favorably on a referendum permitting concessions and the sale of beer in Appleton parks. The Post-Crescent, by an error in writing, said in a story yesterday that Appleton residents voted to prohibit concessions and the sale of beer in the parks.

Inspected Park
The Jaces Sunday inspected Telulah park with members of the park board and at that time agreed verbally to use the park for the celebration provided the park was improved somewhat.

However, the Jaces executive committee Monday decided at a special meeting that Telulah park would be unfit for the celebration and notified the park board to that effect. Among the reasons given by the Jaces for refusing use of the park were that parking facilities would be inadequate, traffic hazards would be created because of the location of the park and that the park is too small.

Mark Muth, director of the Green Bay WPA district, is scheduled to meet with the board tonight to discuss WPA work in the parks and possibly the proposed improvements at Telulah park.

Light to Heavy Frost Predicted

The thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building registered 55 degrees this noon.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Omaha with 84 degrees and Park Falls, Wis., and Eau Claire, Mich., with 34 degrees, according to the Associated Press.

America 'Fortified Against False Propaganda'—Writer

The man who wrote the following "war or peace" letter has reiterated a statement that was expressed in a previous letter and is deserving of attention.

He says: "America is fortified as never before against false propaganda." This ability of Americans to pick out spurious propaganda from legitimate news is the leading reason why we will not go to war, he says.

Read his letter-essay on the subject:

"Believe it or not—I am sure that America will not be drawn into any general European conflict that might flare up.

"Why not? Well, for a number of obvious reasons. First of all, because I am sure America is fortified as never before, against false propaganda. With our ability to act upon leaders direct. We know what Hitler or Mussolini or Chamberlain says and Beck and Goebbels are the feet of their pulse. We witness the hesitancy with which one group of nations eddies away from a conflict with another. Why do they? Well, we all know now that the Versailles treaty was a very unjust treaty. Even the nations involved admit it. Chamberlain himself acted with that conviction in mind. Furthermore, because the surplus makes possible quick reprisals of "behind-the-trenches" attacks, there is great deliberation on the part of big powers.

People Alert
"We the People in America, are aroused to a consciousness of the need."

Play, Style Show Are Presented at Party in Church

A short play, a style show featuring clothing dating back to 1880, and a kitchen band were features of the birthday party sponsored by Ladies Aid society of St. Matthew Lutheran church last night at the church. ## Worry and Fear Dominate World, Professor Says

Have Faith in Scientific Thought, Dr. Aagard Advises

"The world today is dominated by worry and fear, in direct contrast to the state of the world in 1912, in which security and faith were the dominate notes," said Professor Walter Aagard of the University of Wisconsin at the Phi Beta Kappa convocation at the Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday.

"What sort of security can we find in the world of today?" asked Professor Aagard. "When I was in college we had faith in the security of our world. There were no problems of unemployment, no political insecurity, for our democracies were perfectly secure, and science was thought to be finding out the answers to human problems.

"But today the security and faith have been replaced by worry and fear. Today we have 12 million people who seem to be permanently unemployed. Democracy has its back to the wall. Science has done very little to help men to solve their problems. International relations are bringing only worry and fear to the people of the world.

"What we need today is a new design for living, and to achieve this we must work for three things," he said.

"First, we should have the basic point of view of the scientist, we should be resolved to face the facts, and to understand the situation as it really exists.

"People should have the attitude of art. This artistic attitude is to live with senses alert, to keep our eyes open to see the beauty of life.

"The most important of all: Our human relationships. We should have faith in certain human attributes, for no one should use another human being as a machine. We should strive for a definite democracy, a situation in society in which every individual has a chance to develop to the extent of his capacities. Economic democracy is an important goal we must achieve, and a large scale government program of economic development will be an important factor."

Progressive Favors One-House Legislature

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman Laurie Carlson (P), Bayfield, introduced a joint resolution today for a constitutional amendment establishing a one-house legislature.

The proposal has been rejected several times by Wisconsin legislatures. Carlson's resolution would abolish the senate and assembly and set up a single lawmaking body of not less than 90 nor more than 100 members. The change would be made in 1945.

A constitutional amendment must be approved by two successive legislatures and approved by the voters.

In the tourist season there is an average of 15,000 Americans in Mexico City.

over their laps, and they moved off on the route to the Quebec provincial legislative buildings.

The royal procession consisted of two open cars and several closed cars of officials. The king and queen rode alone.

Cheering came in great waves, punctuated by welcoming cries in Quebec French and the pealing of bells from the narrow winding cobblestone streets that lead from the riverfront to the "upper town."

At 9:10 a. m., the procession reached the rambling legislature buildings for the welcome to Quebec province by Premier Maurice Duplessis.

Duplessis pledged to King George and Queen Elizabeth today the loyalty of Quebec province and, "in particular, of Canadians of French descent."

"Unanimous in 'Entente' he said in an address read to the king in the provincial legislative council chamber, "we acclaim today the presence of your majesty in our ancient capital."

He spoke of "the entente between the Anglo-Canadian and Franco-Canadian, a pact the British parliament later was to ratify in giving us the federative charter" of 1867 and declared:

"This pact we cherish in our hearts, and never shall we cease to consider the throne as the bulwark of our constitutional liberties."

Thousands thronged the lawns around the buildings and cheered as the king and queen entered.

Duplessis spoke in French and the king's reply was read in the same language. The monarch paid tribute to the loyalty of the French-Canadian people.

Hails 'Tolerance'
"The spirit of tolerance in which the great races of (Canada) dwell side by side in this province is an example to the entire world," King George said. "This harmony augurs well for the future of Canada."

The king and queen sat on a red-covered dais during the brief ceremony in the red legislative council chamber.

The notables present, headed by Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve of Quebec, were presented to their majesties, after which the royal party left the chamber amid applause.

The king and queen then drove to the citadel for a brief rest before attending a luncheon given by the Dominion government. They reached there 45 minutes ahead of schedule, at 10:30 a. m. C. S. T.

The jury found the plaintiff 40 per cent negligent and the defendant 60 per cent negligent. The case opened before Judge Thomas H. Ryan Monday morning.

Local Section of Chemical Society Elects Officers

Dr. Kenneth A. Craig, Lawrence College, Named New Chairman

Dr. Kenneth A. Craig, assistant professor of chemistry at Lawrence college who has resigned to accept a position in the research laboratory of the Kimberly Clark corporation, was elected chairman of the Northeast Wisconsin section, American Chemical society, at the last meeting of the section Tuesday night in the Science hall of Lawrence college. He succeeds Dr. Raymond Molzau of the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Other officers elected are the Rev. Peter Fritz, St. Norbert's college, West DePere, vice chairman; Paul Eastwood, Kimberly Clark corporation, research laboratory, secretary and treasurer; and Dean Harry F. Lewis of the institute, councilor.

Dr. Charles Kraus, Brown university, president of the American Chemical society, spoke at the meeting on the "Influence of Constitutional Factors on Properties of Electrolytes." About 60 chemists and students attended the meeting. Dr. Kraus was honored at a banquet preceding the meeting at the Hawthornes.

The local section of the chemical society, comprising chemists of Outagamie and eight neighboring counties, has completed one of its most successful years. It was marked by the second largest percentage of growth in all the local sections of the society. Several of the most eminent chemists in the country were among the speakers at the monthly meetings.

Fishermen Will Return With Stories if Luck Fails Them

New tales of fishing prowess are expected to be trickling back into Appleton and Outagamie county this week as sportsmen return from strategic points along streams and lakes following the opening of the general fishing season Monday.

Fishermen were forced to head week when the legislature failed to advance the fishing season opening. The season opened Monday on every type of game fish except black bass and muskellunge. Black bass fishing becomes legal June 20 and the season on muskies May 25.

John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, said that the sale of fishing licenses has been about average, although an accurate check on the number is impossible at present because the many dealers in the county do not make their report at this time.

The trout season will remain open until Sept. 7. White bass, rock bass, crappie and calico, silver and strawberry bass may be taken until next Jan. 15. Fishing of pike (wall-eyed of any variety) and pickerel also may be caught until next Jan. 15.

Production-for-Use Bills Backed at Assembly Hearing

Madison—(P)—General property tax levies would be decreased and the unemployed would be put back to work if three proposed production-for-use bills were passed, proponents of the measures predicted before the assembly judiciary committee yesterday.

The bills, by three Milwaukee Progressives—Assemblyman Koegel, Kieffer and Wagner—would empower the state and municipalities to create "authorities" which would have power to engage in the "marketing, selling, buying and manufacturing" of agricultural and other projects and in public works projects.

The measures would provide "the ways and means" to end growing relief rolls, Kieffer said, justifying the granting of "wide power because of the present situation which requires drastic action."

Assails Bills
Harry Green, Milwaukee, representing the Construction Industries Advisory Council, opposed the measures. He said he was "shocked" by the bills which "haven't any chance at all of solving the problem."

Dissenters failed to make an appearance yesterday as a bill proposing creation of a Wisconsin board of administrative review, which would hear appeals from commission and departmental orders, was reviewed before the senate judiciary committee.

One of the administration's reorganization measures, the bill would empower the board to hear appeals from rulings of the public service and tax commissions, and the departments of securities, agriculture and markets, and insurance.

The industrial commission would be excluded from the board's jurisdiction under a substitute amendment offered by Senator Duell (R) of Fond du Lac after objections had been presented by Voyta Wrabetz, industrial commission chairman and Fred Gastrow, representing the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor.

Civil Service Plea
Senator White (R) of River Falls said the measure had the approval of the state bar association, which has been considering similar legislation for several years.

"Better state service" would result if the constitution was amended to provide for civil service, State Senator Philip E. Nelson (P) of Maple told the senate judiciary committee in urging its approval of his joint resolution calling for the amendment.

Proponents of the measure included William Frazier of Madison, representing state, county and municipal employees; Roy E. Kubista, Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin State Employees' association; Mrs. Frank Clapp, Madison, Wisconsin League of Women Voters, and Fred E. Gastrow of Madison, representing the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor.

Nelson told the committee he believed the "resolution is in the best interest of the state because it will enable us to attract employees of ability, character and integrity."

ing the president to do something to "relieve the situation," was back at his home in Jellico, Tenn. Mr. Roosevelt at Washington told a press conference he had no intention of intervening in the controversy. He said the use of troops primarily was up to the governor.

Governor Chandler at the state capital in Frankfort issued a lengthy statement answering charges of John J. Lewis, the U. M. W. and CIO chief, who charged the governor with being "mad" in sending troops.

"The troops of Kentucky are not going to be bullied by John J. Lewis," the governor said, adding that he, as governor, was "going to guard the rights of all of the people."

General Carter, holding a press conference, in answer to a question said:

"The troops are under orders to shoot and shoot to kill if necessary. There'll be no pushing around of soldiers on this duty. None have been pushed around."

There has been no serious trouble since the first night the troops came to Harlan Sunday night—when a non-union miner was killed by another non-union miner in a nearby town and a man shot on a main street of Harlan by a deputy sheriff, except the clubbing of a union miner by a guardsman.

Vote Purchase of Road Oil; Reject Sidewalk Prices

Menasha Aldermen Will Readvertise for Bids On Project

Menasha — The Menasha council acted on two bids for the purchase of oil and voted to readvertise for bids for the construction of sidewalk at the council session Tuesday night. The aldermen voted to purchase 80,000 gallons of road oil from the Standard Oil company at 27 cents per gallon. Bids were received from four other firms. During a recess in the council session, the representative of the Scotch Oil company requested return of his company's bid, alleging that Standard failed to comply with the specifications. The Standard Oil representative declared that the oil would meet specifications. The services of a representative to assist in applying the oil was included in the bidding.

Four bids were received on the purchase of 400 gallons of motor oil and the bids were referred to the street committee with power to act. Mayor W. H. Jensen, Alderman Paul Laemmrich and Antone Jedwabny will assist the street committee in reaching a decision on the bids.

On motion of Alderman Walter O'Brien, the successful bidder on the sidewalk project will be required to employ local labor in the project. The checks of all unsuccessful bidders were returned.

The Menasha aldermen received an invitation to attend the Memorial day services, extended by John Backes, secretary of the Memorial day observance committee. The aldermen accepted the invitation and voted to meet at the city hall before the parade.

Mayor W. H. Jensen reminded the aldermen that only he and Alderman Karrow were the parade last year. The council voted $100 to the committee for use in the Memorial day program.

Minister Urges Cooperation in Rearing Child

Rev. W. A. Jacobs Addresses Nicolet School PTA Meeting

Menasha — "If American democratic society is to continue, modern education, the modern home, community, state and nation, must cooperate in helping people grow up, mature emotionally and intellectually as well as physically, without 'apron strings,'" the Rev. W. A. Jacobs, pastor of First Congregational church, told Nicolet School Parent Teacher association at its final meeting of the year Tuesday night.

"It is one thing to bend and mold a child to your own will. It is another to guide him to growth with self-reliance, insight and control, attune to the larger purpose that runs through life, understanding himself in relation to the world and the great human family," declared the Rev. Mr. Jacobs. "There are too many adults who are emotionally immature. The apron strings are still tied and as a result, when they get into group life and activity, there are tantrums and emotional upheavals."

Need Social Basis
"Overstress declares in his book, 'We Move in New Directions,' there is great fear that Americans may not be able to make the transition from the individual pattern of yesterday to the socialized state of tomorrow. The American dream of democracy. People must work together and cooperate, not on an individual basis but upon a social basis in our democracy. Our problem is building into our own lives, emotions that are actually grown up and mature so that we, as well as our children, will not carry over into life, the immature, infantile ideas and frustrations that would defeat the American ideal."

"As parents, as teachers, as children, we must get some technique and methods of thinking for our modern age. America and democracy depends not on the Roosevelt or Hoovers or any other people who would like to be president, but on small groups across America who do some serious thinking as mature people, physically, emotionally and intellectually. The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world but it must be an intelligent and mature hand if we are to develop our children into adults who will know how to live and work together in a democratic society."

Students Entertain
Miss Jennie Acker's sixth grade students entertained with four vocal selections prior to the talk. "A Trip to Egypt" in two parts, "Gondoliers" with Cathleen Wascenber singing the solo part, "Amaryllis" and "Stars of the Summer Night" were the selections.

Mrs. Hugh Sutton, president of the association introduced the new officers, Mrs. William Forden, vice president; Miss Miriam Nichol, secretary; and Miss Mary Cleland, treasurer. She also introduced Mrs. William Karrow, program chairman; Mrs. R. V. Rogers, membership chairman; Mrs. Albert Woelker and Mrs. Gerald Kiefer, co-chairmen of hospitality committee. Mrs. O. C. Johnson, historian and Mrs. A. J. Hopfensperger, publicity.

Catlin Outlines His Labor Law in Lions Club Talk

Gives Working Man Right To Decide for Himself, He Says

Neenah — Comparing the philosophy of his labor law which recently was adopted by the state legislature with that of the theory of democratic government, Assemblyman Mark Catlin Jr., Appleton, in a talk to the Neenah Lions club Tuesday noon at the Valley Inn outlined the provisions of the law and answered those who object to it.

"The law was conceived," the assemblyman said, "when I felt that it was our right to determine what is better for ourselves."

Repealing the labor code of 1931, the Catlin law makes it mandatory that there must be a dispute between employers and employees before picketing, the Appleton man asserted, and he explained that his law defines disputes as a disagreement between the employer and the majority of the employees in any collective bargaining unit over the rights, processes and details of collective bargaining.

The law doesn't prevent strikes, he points out, but before there is a strike or picketing, the majority of the employees must agree. He stressed that the law, unlike the Minnesota statute, doesn't limit as to subject matter, and unlike the Oregon law, the Catlin law doesn't prohibit outside assistance in a peaceful strike when a valid dispute is established.

Majority Has Say
In substance, Catlin asserted, "the law provides that it is the will of the majority which shall determine." And he asked, "Why should three employees, out of 500 in a plant, for instance, decide what is best?" The assemblyman outlined cases in which neither the employees nor the employers wanted to join unions, but the unions insisted and picketed the concerns. The courts refused to put an injunction on the unions, contending that in the 1931 code it wasn't necessary to have a dispute between employer and employees for a strike.

"The present law doesn't provide a penalty," the assemblyman told the Lions, "for all it does is give back to the courts a right to injunction."

"After the law was adopted, I was pleased to notice that five business concerns opened which had been closed by strikes from 10 weeks to a year, and I received congratulations from leaders of independent unions. I believe the average American laborer doesn't want to be told that he can't decide for himself what is best for him."

The assemblyman listed the two objections to the law of which he is the author.

Answers Objections
"To illustrate one of the objections," he said, "let's suppose there are two plants manufacturing the same kind of product, and one of these plants has ideal working conditions for its employees while the other is just the opposite. As a result, there is unfair competition unless the ideal plant changes its policy or the other plant becomes ideal, but if the employees in the other plant are satisfied, under my law, the ideal plant can do nothing about it."

"In the history of labor, such a case has never existed and such injustice has been done, and it is unlikely that it will happen, but if it does, I'll say that my law should be changed," he answered.

The assemblyman refuted the contention that his law interferes with freedom of speech, the right to protest, and voluntary unionism. "If you can show me that my law in any way interferes with voluntary unionism, I'll be the first to go to Madison and ask for repeal."

The Lions club made plans for an old time party to be held June 1. It will be in the form of a ladies' night program. "A 'rube band' will furnish the music. The committee in charge of the party is composed of Harry Gates, George Prott, Jr., A. Hidde, Al Laffin and A. Hennig.

Menasha Aldermen Approve Issue of $100,000 in Bonds

Will Replace Corporate Notes; Oshkosh Firm Gets Contract

Menasha — A $100,000 refunding bond issue to replace corporate purpose notes issued by the city was voted by the Menasha common council at its session Tuesday night at the city hall. The contract for the bond issue was awarded to the Northern Trust and New American Bank of Oshkosh with an interest rate of 1 per cent per year and payment of a $490 premium to the city.

Bids were received by the Menasha aldermen from 11 firms Monday night with the low bid submitted by the Oshkosh firm. The bonds will be issued June 1. The present existing bonded indebtedness of the city is $445,000.

The bonds are intended to replace the corporate purpose notes held by the Harris Trust and Savings company of Chicago. The notes, amounting to $105,000, are subject to call on 15 days notice and the aldermen voted to recall the notes. Of that amount, $100,000 will be paid through the bond issue while $25,000 was set up in the budget for 1939 to retire the rest of the notes.

The bonds will be issued in denominations of $1,000. Provisions were made to retire $5,000 of the issue in June, 1940; $20,000 in 1941; $20,000 in 1942; $25,000 in 1943; $25,000 in 1944 and $35,000 in 1945. Interest will be paid semi-annually on June 1 and Dec. 1 by the city treasurer. The first payment of interest will be on Dec. 1, 1939.

Direct Annual Tax
The bond resolution also made provisions for the payment of a direct annual tax to be levied on the property owners of the city. The aldermen appropriated $500 from the general fund to pay interest due on Dec. 1, 1939.

A tax of $6.475 will be levied on the tax roll of 1939. On the 1940 valuation a tax of $20.850 will be levied. On the 1941 valuation $26.650 will be assessed. On the 1942 valuation $28.425 will be assessed. On the 1943 valuation $30.175 will be levied. On the 1944 valuation the assessment will be $32.025.

Librarians Urge Continuance of Book Postal Rate

Fond du Lac Woman Elected Head of Valley Association

Neenah — Miss Leila Jane, Fond du Lac librarian, was elected president of the Fox River Valley Library association during the fifteenth annual convention which was held at the Neenah Public library Tuesday. Mrs. O. Thompson, Ripon, was named secretary-treasurer.

During the business meeting which was held in the afternoon, the association adopted two resolutions, one expressing gratitude to Miss Mary Hart, Neenah librarian, and her staff, Miss Marion Sharpe, Green Bay, program chairman, and newspapers, and the other to petition the United States postal department at Washington, D. C., for permanence in the present book postal rate.

Miss Mary K. Reely, Madison, discussed book reviewing in a talk during the afternoon session. Miss Jean Dodd, Fond du Lac, talked on the fortieth anniversary of the organization during the luncheon at the Valley Inn. Talks were given by Mrs. Charles Veslak, Shawano, and Mrs. Ina Luck, Waupun, during the morning session.

Discusses Reviewing
In her talk, Miss Reely discussed two types of reviewing, one which provides a substitute for reading the books, and the other an incentive for reading. She also contended that there might be a third type, a contribution to the understanding of books.

The librarian suggested that a reviewer should see the book as a whole as well as present the review as a whole. Selection of significant details for presentation shouldn't be long, she said. A review should be two-thirds exposition and interpretation and one-third contribution of reviewer to the subject.

Miss Reely gave a list of the best books for reviewing. They are "A Book of Treasures" by F. B. "Fighting for Life" by Josephine Baker, "Reaching for the Stars" by Wallin, "Days of Our Years" by Van Patten, "Puritan in Babylon" by William Allen White, "Benjamin Franklin" by Van Doren, "Education of an American" by Mark Sullivan, "Tree of Liberty" by Page, "Seasoned Timber" by Dorothy Canfield, "Marginal Land" by Kramer, and "Hope of Living" by Downey.

Between the conciliatory and the irreconcilable New Deal, the radical difference is, I think, that the one group is interested primarily in social reform and the other is interested primarily in the control of the economic system. Thus the reformers wish to provide relief, to practice conservation, to establish social security, and by law to impose social standards upon business and finance. But in order to do these things, they know that there must be money available, and so quite sincerely they would like to promote recovery, not only for its own sake, but in order to finance the reforms. When they are convinced that a certain tax is "detrimental" to enterprise and investment, they would like to modify it.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The Conflict Within the New Deal

After two months of pulling and hauling inside the Administration, the President has disowned the Treasury's program for tax reform, and in the Department of Commerce General Wood has resigned. This seems to end the most recent attempt to bring about a working arrangement between corporate business and the New Deal. Yet it is curious thing that though these efforts always fail, they are always renewed. The record of five years shows that the issue is never settled, that while the New Deal never actually succeeds in making peace with the business community, at intervals the New Deal feels that it must open peace negotiations.

The play has now been performed so many times that the audience ought to know the scenario by heart. For it is only the actors who change. The olive branch is extended to representative business men by some one reputed to be the keeper of the President's conscience. Once, if I remember correctly, the name of the olive branch bearer was Hugh Johnson, then it was Joseph P. Kennedy, then it was Hopkins, Hanes, Morgenthau. The New Deal conciliators always emerge from the general region occupied by the Treasury, the Department of Commerce, or one of the independent agencies, closely in contact with conciliatory business men.

Then just as the conciliatory business men are about to take the olive branch from the conciliatory New Dealers, some one makes a speech or passes a resolution which inflames some one of the President's most cherished complexes. At that point other New Dealers, based, it is supposed, on the general area occupied by the Department of the Interior and its personal affiliates, go into action privately. The conciliators then join the army of those who went forth to battle but always fell.

What Causes the Play to be Performed so Often? There are some who say that it is done to mystify the public. But my belief is that there is a more genuine reason for this continual maneuvering between a settled peace and open war, these repeated essays in reconciliation followed by threats that are never carried out resolutely. The reason is that there are in fact two main tendencies inside the New Deal, and that the President is never able to finally make his choice for the one or the other.

Between the conciliatory and the irreconcilable New Deal, the radical difference is, I think, that the one group is interested primarily in social reform and the other is interested primarily in the control of the economic system. Thus the reformers wish to provide relief, to practice conservation, to establish social security, and by law to impose social standards upon business and finance. But in order to do these things, they know that there must be money available, and so quite sincerely they would like to promote recovery, not only for its own sake, but in order to finance the reforms. When they are convinced that a certain tax is "detrimental" to enterprise and investment, they would like to modify it.

The radicals, on the other hand, are not primarily interested in the reforms. They are primarily interested in reducing the power of corporate business men, and the heart of their program is not in the good works or the public works of the New Deal, not in relief, social security, conservation and the orderly development of natural resources. The heart of the radical program is precisely those deterrent taxes and those restrictive regulations which limit private initiative. Though they do not often avow it publicly, the radicals are opposed to a large revival of private initiative because a revival of initiative would mean a restoration of control.

It is not true, I think, that they oppose recovery as such or that they wish the system of private enterprise to break down. But it is true that they would rather not have recovery if the revival of private initiative means a resumption of the balance of social power.

Tax Issue Symbolizes Division of New Deal
That is why the recent controversy over "tax deterrents" has been so significant. It symbolizes the issue that divides the New Deal. It is primarily a symbolic issue. For no one knows whether the Treasury's tax reforms will actually promote a substantial recovery, given the general state of the world at the present time. But what is known is that if the President had wholeheartedly accepted that program, it would have been a pledge that the reformers rather than the radicals were predominant in the New Deal.

That pledge, whatever its immediate economic effects, would have gone a long way towards an honorable reconciliation between business and the New Deal, a reconciliation based on the acceptance by business of social reform, and by the Administration an acceptance of private initiative and private control in the management of business. In the end either this Administration or its successor will have to make just such a reconciliation. The reforms will not be repealed; on the contrary they will be developed further. And the private control of industry, though it can be modified by law, cannot be replaced. For there is no substitute for it in any scheme of things that the American people are even remotely prepared to consider.

J. Dean Good For 6 Innings

Allows Dodgers 3 Hits; Reds Tie Bees in Second Place

CHICAGO — (AP) — Dizzy Dean came back with a "bang" yesterday, but he didn't get into the ball game in time to stop the unpredictable Dodgers of Brooklyn from walloping the Cubs, 12 to 2.

The Dodgers did all their scoring off Vance Page and Jack Russell in the first four frames, counting seven runs in the first inning alone. Then Dizzy was called in for his first National league hurling appearance of the year and pitched three hit scoreless ball through the last five frames. He fanned five and walked none.

Dizzy's pitching job, although the outstanding development of the game, had to play second fiddle to that turned in by Whitlow Wyatt, the Brooklyn's new righthander from Milwaukee. Wyatt, going the route for his fourth straight win, tossed a four-hitter, fanned eight and walked three. He didn't allow a hit until the sixth when the Cubs scored on their first run. Hank Leibert's homer in the ninth was the only other Chicago tally.

Cookie Lavagetto paced the Dodgers' 16 hit attack, clouting a homer and two singles and driving in four runs. Doph Camilli also whacked a four-bagger, his sixth of the year.

REDS IN SECOND PLACE

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Paced by Bill Werber and Ernie Lombardi, the Cincinnati Reds moved into a second place tie with the Boston Braves, defeating the Bees 4 to 1 behind the seven hit hurling of Southpaw Les Grissom.

Only an error by Shortstop Billy Myers prevailed a shutout, his miff of Craft's throw in enabling Fletcher to score on Lopez' second inning double.

Grissom, racking up his second victory of the year, was "tough" in the eighth, he failed to strike out any one, but on the other hand issued only two passes.

Meanwhile, his mates, led by Werber and Lombardi with three hits each out of four times up, got to Jim Turner for 10 safeties and three walks.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Big Joe Bowman drove in four runs with a triple and a double yesterday to give Pittsburgh an 8 to 5 victory over Philadelphia and pull the Bucs from the National league cellar.

With the exception of the sixth inning when the Phils bunched five runs, Bowman kept his former teammates under control with nine scattered hits.

CARDS TIP GIANTS

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — The Cardinals had to come from way behind with a three home run attack to nip the New York Giants, 7 to 6, in the opening game of their home stand and beat the first National league team to a game and a half.

The Giants worked hard to beat the one but they finally accomplished it after looking away a five run lead they had piled up in the first three frames. The defeat dropped Bill Terry's troupe into seventh place in the league standing.

Giants Start Fast

The "meat balls" served by Harry Gumbert and Cliff Melton to Johnny Mize, Ducky Medwick and Pepper Martin were all belted for homers and produced six of the Cards' seven runs. The winning marker came home in the seventh on a walk, Melton's error, an infield out and Lynn Myers' pinch single.

S. Krueger walloped three home runs and three singles in six trips to the plate to pace the Mt. Olive team. Helms and Dewey each collected round trippers while Ehke, E. Goehner and Dunsmuir whammed triples and Pulver was credited with a double.

State League Notes

ABATTLE for first place will be staged at Green Bay Sunday when the Sox open their home season against Clintonville. Both the Bays and the Clints have come through with twin victories in their first two starts this season.

Over at Seymour there will be a battle to climb out of the cellar when Rex and Co. and New London cross bats and the fair grounds. Seymour has got off on the wrong foot with two defeats and it is the same story for the Londoners.

The old rivals, Two Rivers and Manitowish, will have it out on the Shipbuilders' diamond. It will be a Sunday morning game as the baseballers are giving the Citizenship program full sway for all events in the afternoon.

Roy Trimble, recruit first sacker, has won a home for himself at Clintonville. The newcomer fields brilliantly and he is getting his share of bingles. Trimble talks it up plenty and he has got the whole team showing pep.

Two Rivers is well satisfied with the way Jack Prucha is working behind the log. The youngster has shown lots of class in his two starts and he will improve as the season goes on. Prucha looks them over well at the plate.

M. Cambridge, former Manitowish athlete, seems to have found his batting eye and this means that he is a fixture at second base for the Ships. Mac is fast as greased lightning and is always dangerous when on the bases.

Vande Walle, the New London shortstop, has been kicking away more ground balls than usual this spring. The former Lawrence collegian, however, is a speedy infielder and once he gets in stride he will help Hawk and Co. plenty.

Elmer Jacobs, veteran Green Bay infielder, appears headed for his best season of baseballing. Elmer is holding down the shortstop job like a big leaguer besides getting his hits when they spell runs on the scoreboard.

Paul Herr, dean of the umpires in the Northern States, has worked a pair of good games to date. Herr has little trouble on the field as players and spectators alike have a high regard for his baseball judgment.

President Bernard Neumann puts in a lot of mileage during the season as he travels around the circuit and generally is in a different city every Sunday. Neumann is slated to attend the opener at Green Bay this weekend.

Two Rivers tightened its claim to the Cool City championship last Sunday and some of the out-of-town fans who attended the game at Walsh stadium got plenty cold despite the red-hot exhibition on the diamond.

Manitowish put a dent in the dope bucket by taking the bacon home from Seymour by a 7 to 4 count. The Ships played headsup baseball and cashed in on every opportunity to chalk up their first victory of the 1939 schedule.

For the second successive week, Joe Vnuk headlined the Manitowish attack. The left fielder helped himself to three safeties and they were all clutch blows. When Joe is on a hitting spree, it takes the fire department to put him out.

Dick Weisberger, making his first start for Seymour, seemed to lack something on the ball when the bays were populated. A four run uprising in the eighth was curtains for Weisberger and Porky Penzenstadler finished the game.

Syd Felts, star Clintonville pitcher, breezed along without much trouble in the Trunkers' 11 to 3 win over New London. The High Life broke the ice in the second on a triple and wild pitch but this advantage was soon wiped out.

Decker had the 1938 champions fairly well tamed until the fourth when Goetlinger's cohorts chased a couple of runs home. In the fifth, the New London slabber bumped into trouble and Munsch took his place on the slab.

Clintonville pried off the baseball lid with lots of glory. The high school band cut loose with some peppy tunes and the flag raising ceremony was handled nicely. Mayor A. A. Washburn heaved the first ball right over the plate.

Ruben Schuster, a new arrival in the Green Sox battle front, twirled super ball against Two Rivers and the Bays scored a

Yanks Use Homers To Stretch Win Streak to 6 Games

Gordon, Selkirk, Dahlgren Get Circuit Blows; Chi Sox are Beaten

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Yankees called on their old trademark, the home run, three times yesterday to whip the St. Louis Browns 7-5 in the opening tilt of their home stand and stretch their winning streak to six straight games.

The victory maintained the Yanks' game and a half lead in the American league standings.

Although each team made only eight hits, the Yanks' homers accounted for six of their seven runs. Joe Gordon hit his fourth of the year in the second inning with the bags empty. George Selkirk connected for his fifth in the sixth heat with one on, and Babe Dahlgren belted his third in the eighth with two on base. The only other Yankee run preceded Selkirk's clutch in the sixth, coming on a single, a walk and an error.

The Browns didn't give up without a fight. After being held to two runs and three hits by Bump Hadley through the first seven innings, they threatened in the eighth until Freshman Johnny Murphy came in to stop them.

But in the ninth, they climbed aboard Johnny for four hits and three runs and fell just short of catching up, as Relief Twirler Alcy Donald "put out the fire" with the tying runs on base. Hadley took credit for the win.

The defeat was the first suffered by Jack Kramer, rookie from San Antonio, after three victories. He pitched through the sixth and gave up three of the runs. George Gill, recently acquired from the Detroit Tigers, finished up.

With McClone holding Sacred Heart to one hit, St. Mary scored a 9 to 0 Catholic Boy conference victory in a game at the Franklin school diamond yesterday.

It was the fourth St. Mary victory in six tilts. The team will travel to Menasha for a game with St. John's Tuesday.

CHI SOX OVERWHELMED

Boston — (AP) — The Red Sox celebrated their return to Fenway park yesterday by going on a 19 hit rampage that overwhelmed the Chicago White Sox, 18-4, and gave freshman pitcher, Woody Rich, his third triumph of the season.

Every member of the Boston team hit safely against the Chicago pitching, supplied by Johnny Rigney, Vic Frasier and Art Herring. Lou Finney, filling in at first base for Jimmy Fox, hospitalized with sinus trouble, was one of the Red Soxers to bang out three hits.

Finney made his Boston debut in home team regalia an eventful one by lashing out two doubles and a single. Bobby Doerr drove out his second homer of the season with one aboard in the second inning.

Rich held the Sox to six hits and all but one of their runs were unearned. Jim Taber's wild throw in the third set the stage for their three run rally that tied the score.

Holstein Herd Is Best Producer of Fat During April

Fifteen Registered Cows Of Willis Munger Have 38.8-Pound Average

Fifteen registered Holsteins owned by Willis Munger, Seymour, produced an average of 1,219 pounds of milk or 38.8 pounds of butterfat, to lead production in the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement association, No. 6, in April, according to Clyde Olesen, tester.

The 15 grade Guernseys of George Langenhulzen, Oneida, was second with an average of 36.5 pounds of fat. Third was the Philip Engel, Seymour, herd of 10 grade Holsteins and Guernseys with an average of 36.3 pounds of fat. The Holstein herd of Mrs. Anna Geenen and Sons, Kaukauna, was fourth with an average of 36 pounds.

First place in individual production was a grade Holstein in the Chris Cleven, Oneida, herd with 1,839 pounds of milk containing 84.6 pounds of butterfat. A cow in the Lester Krahn, Seymour, herd was second with 64 pounds of butterfat. Third was a cow in the Engel herd with 63.6 pounds of fat, and fourth a cow in the Munger herd with 60.8 pounds of fat.

Following are owners and number of cows producing 40 or more pounds of butterfat during April: Elmer Kimball 2, Otto Mielke 3, Carl Mielke 3, Allen Powell 1, John Finner 5, Lester Krahn 3, Fred Krahn 5, Alvin Prellip 5, John Appleton 4, Mrs. Anna Geenen 2, Herman Beyer 9, Fred Hoffman 2, Theodore Van Bostel 2, Chris Cleven 5, George Langenhulzen 2, John Frieman 4, John Phillips 6, Earl Heagle 2, Perry Culbertson 1, George Peotter 2, Roy Thomas 5, Willis Munger 5, Herb Krahn 1 and Philip Engel 3.

Milk Records Increase Number of Proved Sires

With production records of about 130,000 cows in dairy herd improvement associations in the present files of the bureau of dairy industry, Dr. J. F. Kendrick, in charge of the herd improvement work for the bureau, predicts in a bulletin to J. F. Magnus, county agent, greatly increased numbers of "proved" bulls from which dairymen may choose. When dam and daughter records are compared, they show the value of the sire.

In 1938 more than 1,000 bulls were proved by these production records which are growing at the rate of several thousand each year. The project was started less than four years ago.

Of the bulls proved last year the largest number, 236, were in New York. Wisconsin was second with 121, and Iowa third with 110. Other States with 50 or more proved bulls in 1938 were Virginia, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Kansas, and Vermont.

Beware of Inspector Racket, Magnus Warns

Reports received by the state department of agriculture indicated that the "inspector racket" is being worked in various parts of the state, according to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

"When somebody enters your premises representing himself as a state inspector, ask to see his credentials before you give him intimate access to your place," Magnus warns.

Here is what happened to one unsuspecting seed dealer in western part of the state recently. A self-styled inspector asked for permission to examine seed stocks. The dealer granted it. A few days later $900 worth of seed was stolen.

Abundant Pasture Aid in Producing Pork at Low Cost

Plentiful Amounts Will Save Fully a Third Of Grain Ration

No one thing in the production of cheap pork is more important than pasture, James Lacey, Wisconsin College of Agriculture, states in a letter to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent. Lacey has found that pasture, when provided in plentiful amounts, will save fully a third of the grain ration that would be needed for dry lot feeding.

Experimental feeding trials, at the Wisconsin Experiment station, have shown that $30 per acre may be returned to the swine grower from alfalfa pasture for one season's production. This is an unusually high net return, and is made possible, it is claimed, through the saving of feed that pasture makes possible.

Pastures for the 1939 pig crop may be especially valuable, Lacey believes, because rapid production will be desired to permit swine growers to take advantage of the early fall market. Average gains of 1.3 pounds per pig per day have been obtained on pasture feeding, while the average gain in dry lot feeding has been only 1.05 pounds.

The extra gain, it is said, will shorten the time required for producing a good quality market hog. Alfalfa, clover, blue grass, and peas-oats-rape, are all regarded as excellent hog pasture crops for Wisconsin. Alfalfa is considered most valuable because of its longer season production and its high percentage of protein. Clover and peas-oats-rape are probably next in value. Some objection is sometimes offered to rape mixture because of "blustering" of white hogs when pastured on this combination.

But the kind of pasture isn't as important as the amount, Lacey is insisting as he urges Wisconsin swine producers to exert every effort to have an abundant supply this summer.

Modern Farmer Uses Costs As Guide to Greater Profit

BY JACK THOMPSON
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington—Two-word memo to the modern farmer: Count costs! And don't kid yourself by leaving out important items just because they don't happen to require cash.

Keeping track of costs accurately, say Department of Agriculture experts, is the best way to conserve cash for radios, cars, education, new clothes, higher taxes—bills that didn't come at all or didn't come so high in the days of the self-sufficient farm.

The modern farmer, after counting all costs, may discover, for example, that the south 80 would make more money in corn than in wheat. He may find that although it demands a cash outlay, a milking machine will save him more than the equivalent in time.

Although the farmer can't figure on definite output and his prices often fluctuate more than the business man's, costs still can be counted. And there are a number of improvements on the old method of subtracting cash paid out from cash taken in.

Greatest Danger

The greatest danger comes in omitting important costs that don't necessarily require cash—land and family labor, for example. They account for more than 50 per cent of production costs on some farms.

The value of your labor and that of members of your family should be fixed at whatever figure seems reasonable—what it would cost to hire someone to do the work is one method.

Planting expenses—seed and fertilizer—are easier to figure since they often are paid out in cash. Another item that should be counted is your cost of power whether you use a tractor or horses.

Then there's depreciation on buildings and equipment. Cost accountants have fancy ways to figure that. But for a simple method divide the total value of your buildings or machinery by the number of years they should last. Then add your repairs.

These general cost items plus others which you know of on your particular farm will give you about what the business man figures when he counts cost.

And thousands of farmers do count costs on each crop. From information furnished by farmers throughout the country in 1937, the Department of Agriculture estimates that it cost an average of $20.15 an acre to raise corn; $14.87 to raise wheat; $15.27 an acre to grow oats.

What does it cost you?

THANKFUL SHE BEGAN GLY-CAS WHEN SHE FIRST LEARNED OF IT

Mrs. L. D. Lehman Considers Herself Fortunate In Taking The Herbal Remedy So Soon; Digestion Is Fine, Enjoys Restful Nights Sleep; Nerves Quieted; Not Necessary To Diet Now

Many medicines have been introduced here in Appleton in past years but many local residents will soon agree that Gly-Cas is the very medicine they had been wanting.

"I suffered indigestion followed by a severe attack of heartburn and I dieted carefully but suffered just the same. I would eat until I could hardly breathe at times. Pains settled in my back, was disturbed frequently at night and could hardly straighten-up at times. My legs were filled with pain too, could hardly get about at times. Naturally in this condition I was nervous and on edge all of the time. My strength and energy was waning and I was alarmed over my condition. But it was not until I began Gly-Cas that I found a medicine to fit my case."

"This medical compound, Gly-Cas, began its work by giving the proper elimination of these intestinal poisons and soon I was showing rapid improvement generally in the way I felt," continued Mrs. Lehman. "Today I am glad for the opportunity to publicly tell others of a medicine I found as commendable as Gly-Cas. I am now eating and enjoying nourishing foods without distress afterwards. I began to notice the back-pains leaving too and I rest well throughout the nights again. My nerves are quieted and I am feeling better than I have in many years. No wonder so many people are lauding the action of this remedy. My son too has found it to fit his case."

The Gly-Cas Man is daily meeting the local public at the Volts Drug Store, 124 East College Ave., this city, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this medical compound.

STORY OF THE BATTLESHIP
III—Later Ironclads

History books often leave out the later history of the "Merrimac" and the "Monitor" after the day of their four-hour battle, so I shall make a few notes on the subject.

The "Merrimac" was badly in need of repairs when it returned to Norfolk. There it was fitted up again, and 33 days later steamed out to the James river toward Ft. Monroe. It came within sight of the "Monitor," which was guarding the wooden warships. This time, no battle took place, but gunboats which traveled alongside the "Merrimac" captured a few Union barges.

The next month, the Southern soldiers had to give up Norfolk. Before leaving, they sank the "Merrimac" to keep it from falling into the hands of the North.

The "Monitor" existed only a little longer. It was sunk in a storm of Cape Hatteras, with the loss of 16 men.

So both the ironclads met their end, but the memory of them lasted. They had proved the power of iron plates to stop the force of cannon balls.

Work was quickly started by the Confederate side to put heavy iron plates on four war vessels at New Orleans. Had this work been finished before the city was attacked by Admiral Farragut, the Civil war probably would have lasted longer. As it was, the Union fleet got past the batteries at the mouth of the Mississippi, and New Orleans was captured.

Several more vessels of the "Monitor" type were built by the North, and they helped the North keep control of the sea during the rest of the Civil war.

Armored vessels were used in the Franco-Prussian war, also in the Russo-Turkish war of 1878. By the time of the Spanish-American war, all the world's "naval powers" had ironclads. Spain had them, and so did the United States.

It was a time when Spain was "Mistress of the Seas," but that was before the Spanish armada sailed to attack England, and met its doom. In 1898, Spain was far behind other nations in sea power.

The most important battles of the Spanish-American war were two which were fought on the sea, the Battle of Manila bay and the Battle of Santiago. In Manila bay, Commodore Dewey (later an admiral) destroyed 10 Spanish warships, without losing any of his own. The Battle of Santiago was also a complete victory for the Americans. In the two battles only one American lost his life.

Council Studies Oiling Program On City Streets

Question Whether Aldermen or Voters Can Make Expenditure

New London — The city-wide oiling of streets at an annual cost of $6,000 per year to taxpayers was taken under consideration by the New London common council at a meeting last night after granting five petitions for special oiling and denying two others.

The question was referred to City Attorney Giles H. Putnam to determine whether the council has the legal power to authorize the annual expenditure or whether a vote of the people is required. The blanket oiling of streets was proposed by Alderman Harry Emmons and backed up by William Litts after a lengthy discussion of the problems of the situation.

No action was taken on a petition by residents of Dexter street to have the street oiled, the city to pay for all expenses along vacant lots and the scattered home owners to contribute their share. The oiling was requested on the claim that traffic had increased greatly on the street due to the closing of the Hatten park project. There are about 30 vacant lots along the street and only a few home owners.

Deny Petition

A petition by residents of Jennings street to have the street treated with black top from Division to Dexter streets at the city's cost was denied. H. J. Young, a resident, appeared before the council body and charged that the cost of the upkeep of the street on Jennings hill was sufficient to warrant permanent treatment. He pointed out that every rain washes the gravel road filling the concrete road of Wyman street, creating a traffic hazard and plugging up sewer catch basins with road material.

Petitions for oiling which were granted under the conditions that residents share in the expense at an approximate cost of six cents per running foot on each side, were as follows: W. Spring street between Wagon and Dorr streets; Quincy street between Hill and Wyman street; Dorr street from Washington to Beacon avenue; W. Cook street from Wyman to Dorr street, and North Water street west from Shawano street.

The city clerk was authorized to seek bids on the cost of re-painting the exterior wood work of the city hall and repairing the city hall tower. Alderman Litts reported that the casual investigation indicated it would be less costly to remove the tower than to repair it. A more thorough investigation will be made to determine whether the tower can be removed without affecting the architecture of the building seriously or repaired at moderate cost.

Park Shelter Project

At the request of F. A. Jennings, superintendent of the Hatten WPA park project, Mayor E. W. Wendlandt was instructed to communicate with WPA district authorities to recall five New London carpenters at work on projects at Fremont, Weyauwega and the Wisconsin Soldiers Home for completing the erection of the roof on the shelter house now under construction at Hatten park.

The proposed ordinance to limit the building of homes in any district of the city to a minimum of $500 was continued to another meeting. Aldermen thought the limit of 500 per cent of the lot valuation was too high, and would tend to discourage building, favored Mayor Wendlandt's suggestion of 25 per cent but on the objections of Engineer Inspector Victor Thomas the proposal was held over for further consideration.

A new liquor ordinance containing approximately the same detailed provisions of the recently adopted beer ordinance was read but adoption deferred to the next regular meeting June 6 when action is mandatory if the ordinance is in effect by July 1.

The bill was referred back to the city attorney for final drafting. The question of prohibiting electrical phonograph machines in taverns was left open and provision was made for the drawing up of a set of sanitary requirements by the board of health.

A tavern operator's license was granted to Roger Sloan.

Plans Completed by Clintonville Unit For Annual Poppy Day

Clintonville — Plans for their annual poppy day on Saturday, May 27, were completed by members of the American Legion auxiliary at their May meeting Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus hall. Mrs. W. T. Luedke, poppy chairman, will be assisted by unit members in the various sections of the city. The program included the reading of an article on legislation and several poems by Mrs. F. C. Walch. The evening closed with the serving of a lunch by Mrs. Luedke, Mrs. Edwin Hangerman, Mrs. Irvin Meidam and Mrs. Otto Olen.

Work was done in the Master Mason degree at a special meeting of Clintonville Lodge No. 197 F. and A. M. Monday evening.

Maurice Kiley of Eau Claire, a former resident of this city, left Sunday for Indiana where he has been transferred as sales representative for the Four Wheel Drive Auto company. He will succeed the late Arthur B. Polan, whose territory included the states of Indiana and Michigan. Mrs. Kiley and son Maurice, Jr., and Wesley will remain in Eau Claire until the close of the present school term.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cotton of Chicago visited here over the weekend. The former returned to his position as head of the Chicago branch of the F. W. D. company, while Mrs. Cotton remained to spend the summer months in Clintonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Olen returned home Saturday evening from a three weeks' motor trip of about 7,000 miles through the west. They went from here to Lincoln, Neb., where they were joined by Mrs. Olen's sister, Mrs. Harold Lidgard, who made the trip with them. In Idaho they visited their two brothers who live on ranches near Caldwell. From there they continued to Los Angeles, Calif., where they visited F. B. Carlson, father of Mrs. Olen and Mrs. Lidgard. They also visited relatives at Long Beach, Santa Anna and Ventura, Calif. While in that state, they also went to Hollywood and attended the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco. Places of scenic interest visited enroute included: Crater of the Moon in Idaho, Boulder Dam, the Yosemite National Park, the redwood forests, and Salt Lake City with its historic Mormon tabernacle.

A motorcade will leave the Holy Name school at 1:15 Sunday afternoon and transportation will be furnished to members without cars.

The parade will start on the north side and march to the La Follette park where benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held. Kimberly Community band will head the local society in the parade and the Holy Name choir will take part in the services.

Hollywood — The mighty men of pictures, when criticized for paying such outlandish salaries to stars, have always had a pat answer to wit: "these people are irreplaceable, therefore they are worth every cent they get." At the risk of lese majeste, I doubt it. Like most pat answers, it's true in perhaps one case in ten—namely, when the picture is completely wrong in the other nine.

Marie Dressler WAS irreplaceable. So was Will Rogers and Rudolph Valentino, and, possibly, Lon Chaney. But those are the exceptions. Consider the hundreds of others to whom Hollywood paid lavish salaries—thousands of dollars a week—and who suddenly dropped from sight without leaving a ripple on the smooth surface of public interest in movies. Katharine Hepburn, for instance, whose salary must have amounted to about $3,500 a week, forty weeks a year. And Marlene Dietrich, whose earnings were far larger. In order to justify the enormous valuations placed upon them by Hollywood, both ladies should have been rare commodities—as unique and irreplaceable as a Titian masterpiece or the Kohinoor diamond. But what are the facts? They were in the spotlight one month, completely out of it the next—and the star-buying public was so little grieved by their loss that most fans are not even aware of their absence from the screen.

That pat rule—or rather the fast meeting, all officers of the society were reelected: Mr. De Bruin, president; Paul Lockschmidt, vice president and marshal; Theodore Wachendonk, treasurer and Ray Schellthout, secretary.

MovieLand Its People and Products

Claudette Colbert and James Stewart have been teamed for the first time in a fast-moving mystery comedy "It's a Wonderful World."

misconception on which it's based — is costing Hollywood PLENTY. And Hollywood, apparently, is having trouble passing the costs on to theatre-goers. If it's true that pictures are losing money, it seems high time for the studios to do a little analyzing and retrenching, with the final step a revision of theatre prices.

Wild excitement at Paramount the other day. A light on the main switchboard flashed, the telephone operator plugged in and heard pandemonium. The excited barking and growling of a dog, the crash of upsetting furniture, all the sounds of a mad struggle! A hasty glance showed the location of the disturbance to be Louise Campbell's dressing room, and the panicky operator notified the studio police. Those brawny heroes dashed bravely to the rescue, broke down the dressing room door—and found Louise's Irish setter, "Michael, Too," hopelessly tangled in the 20 foot telephone cord.

MUTTERINGS: What soul-satisfying pleasure to shake those rabid commentators who ruin beautiful scenic reels with their insane gabble! Ode to mayhem: "Mr. Barrymore, this young lady wants to interview you — it's for her school paper." Please — won't someone speak to Don Ameche about those towering collars? Admiring gasp on seeing Fred Astaire's meticulous get-up for the cameras: "what a transformation!" Wondering miser: Is the screen Emma's taken-for-granted wife critical, jealous or proud as she watches his display of technique in the picture's clinch? Frankie urge: to snip Adolphe Menjou's suspender straps and double-knot him to maintain that pose. Early summer thought: why is it, in this town of super-shapely girls, that only the longs and shorts parade the boulevard in sun-suits?

That pat rule — or rather the fast meeting, all officers of the society were reelected: Mr. De Bruin, president; Paul Lockschmidt, vice president and marshal; Theodore Wachendonk, treasurer and Ray Schellthout, secretary.

League Hopes for Relief of Local Tax Burdens Dwindle as Legislature Talks of Closing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—With the fifth month of the legislative session well underway and with talk of adjournment heard with increasing frequency, officials of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities today struck a pessimistic note in discussing the prospects for their ambitious legislative program for the benefit of cities, villages, towns and their residents.

The League's two main hopes for this session of the legislature are for:

1. A state relief appropriation large enough to absorb at least 50 per cent of the cost of direct relief during the next two years.

2. Complete absorption by the state government of the cost of social security aids, and particularly old age pensions.

While the League has endorsed, or proposed directly, many other measures for relief and social security program embraces the organization's demand for local property tax reduction.

Now Irregular

At present the state contributes only about 12 per cent of the direct relief expenditures in the state of Wisconsin, and on an irregular basis. Some cities and counties get aid up to 75 per cent, others receive nothing, as the result of the "emergency" relief law now in effect.

Direct relief costs in Wisconsin during the last year have averaged about a million dollars a month, or $12,000,000 a year. A 50 per cent contribution by the state, therefore, implies a biennial state relief appropriation of around $12,000,000.

That compares with the $4,000,000 bill which is being prepared by the present Heil administration.

Mayor James R. Law of Madison, head of the League, it was learned today, has recently had conferences with Governor Heil to press the cities' demand for tax relief through a generous state relief appropriation upon the head of the new administration.

The local governments, which now contribute 20 per cent of the cost of old-age pensions, which run about $1,400,000 a month, and a comparable share of aid to dependent children, are also concerned about the growing tax burden in that direction.

Demand Relief
They demand that the state assume complete responsibility for that job, since the state's tax resources are broader, and since state laws forced the burden on the local governments originally.

League officials concede that realization of their program will force great changes in the state's tax laws. The millions of welfare costs which they demand shall be shouldered by the state treasury can only be found by steeply increased income taxes, or by a new general sales tax, Mayor Law admits.

League spokesmen do not express their preference, but Mayor Law recently told the members of the legislature in a personal appearance that while they have been theorizing about the relative merits of such taxes, the local property taxpayer has been burdened with steadily higher local real estate levies.

Prospects for realization of the League's program appeared exceedingly slender today.

While the cities ask for complete relief of social security costs, the Heil administration's budget appropriations for pensions are such that there is a strong possibility that there will not be enough funds to maintain present pension payment levels, not to mention state absorption of the 20 per cent share of the local governments.

Now in Committee
Administration leaders are corralled all of the numerous pension bills, some of which would accomplish the League's demand, in the finance committee, where they appear likely to remain until adjournment.

The relief appropriation, it seems certain, will fall far short of the $12,000,000 recommended by the cities. Further, it will be taken from the highway fund, instead of from the proceeds of an income or sales tax.

Although opponents of such highway fund diversion have declared that it will be impossible due to restrictions in the federal highway aid law, the governor's financial advisors believe that such restrictions can be circumvented.

The federal prohibition against highway fund diversion, Heil spokesmen believe, applies only to the receipts of the gasoline tax. The administration can if it pleases divert some of the receipts of the automobile license fees without fear of imperiling the state's share of federal road aids, they say.

The inadequacy of the $4,000,000 figure will be strongly emphasized, however, not only by the League with its several hundred mayors and city councils, but by the even more powerful Wisconsin County Boards association, which counts many friends among the legislative Republican majority who are members of county boards at home.

The County Boards association insists on a minimum appropriation of $8,500,000 for the next two years, about double the amount which the Heil administration is reportedly prepared to recommend.

It seemed likely today that both organizations would be disappointed, because the amounts suggested by both of them would send the Heil budget soaring far above the expenditures of any previous administration. Legislators, and the governors, are loath to make a record of large spending. Moreover, both suggestions make necessary higher taxes than are necessary under present budget plans. And legislators and the governor are even more loath to do that.
